Subject: Request for comment on Definers contract, deadline end of day

Writing to request comment on federal records showing that the EPA has hired Definers Corp., a PR firm associated with GOP campaigns, on a $120,000 federal contract to conduct media monitoring.

What work was Definers hired for?

Can you comment on Jahan Wilcox's connections to the staff at Definers, and if he or any other staff played a role in facilitating the contract?

My deadline is end of the day, thank you

Rebecca Leber

George –

I am adding you to this email. Can you please contact Joe Pounder and circle back with me. I believe Definers is able to do morning summaries or morning media matrixes that we can circulate within the agency to interested people and they are also capable of doing live-time alerts 24 hours a day, 7 days a week.

Thank you,

Jahan

Thanks, Jahan. No, I'm not pushing for Bulletin Intelligence. I think many managers and staff across the agency would benefit from getting compiled clips once a day. I'm not pushing a particular vendor over another. I completely understand the benefit of OPA getting clips in live time and I'm not suggesting we change that. - George

Let's talk tomorrow.

I sense you'd really like to get Bulletin but they don't alert stories, tv clips, radio hits and tweets in live time like the interns do.

For example, this weekend everyone was asking me for the Pruitt coverage from the Sunday shows.

Maybe there is a way to do both and make everyone happy, but in terms of actual press people (including everyone in your shop) we need stuff in live time so we can shape it before sometime goes viral, etc.

Decision

Matter of: Fenton Communications; New Heights Communications

File: B-415800; B-415800.2

Date: December 21, 2017

DECISION

Fenton Communications and New Heights Communications protest the award of contract No. EP18H000025 for news clipping services to Definers Corporation by the Environmental Protection Agency. The protesters contend that the agency improperly awarded the subject contract on a sole-source basis.

Subsequent to the filing of this protest, the agency notified our Office that it is terminating the awarded contract. When an agency terminates an awardee's contract, the agency's action renders a protest academic. We do not consider academic protests. Ferris Optical, B-403012.2, B-403012.3, Oct. 21, 2010, 2010 CPD ¶ 265 at 1-2.

The protests are dismissed.

Subject: EPA Media Support Proposal

1) Overall Scope:

Definers Public Affairs can provide the EPA's Office of Public Affairs (OPA) with comprehensive media monitoring services and analysis focused on alerting the team to developing news stories, building compendiums twice a day on issues you have identified. With analysts on the ground in Washington D.C. and the Bay Area, Definers Public Affairs is able to provide comprehensive media monitoring of coherent information on environmental issues, and EPA actions and policies around the clock.

2) Media Monitoring Scope:

Definers Public Affairs can provide comprehensive war room-style media monitoring focused on stories about Administrator Pruitt and the Environmental Protection Agency. This monitoring would include articles and broadcasts from major U.S. newspapers, national television and cable news, news weeklies, relevant magazines and journals, blogs, specialty press, etc. Stories would be compiled into a daily matrix about Administrator Pruitt (example below). While not alerting stories throughout the day with a campaign-level intensity, Definers will alert major stories as they develop. Examples of a Print Alert and TV Alert are enclosed.

The monitoring will focus on stories about Administrator Pruitt and the EPA outlined in the proposal section below. The ultimate goal of the monitoring is to provide your team with a greater understanding of the Administrator's and Agency's coverage throughout the day.

To achieve this Definers will provide the EPA 4 basic services:

- 2A) delivery, via email, of a twice-daily (Monday through Friday) compendium of news coverage of EPA and environmental issues, including a trend analysis
- 2B) delivery, via email and in near-real-time, of media stories involving events, announcements and issues directly relevant to the EPA, with trend analysis included;
- 2C) delivery, via email and in near-real-time, of media stories on high-priority issues and/or media outlets as determined through ongoing discussions between OPA and the vendor.
- 2D) delivery, via searchable database, of stories gathered under the other assigned tasks as of contract start date.

3) Proposal:

Definers Public Affairs can provide comprehensive war room-style media monitoring focused on alerting your team to news stories as they break and develop from English-language sources.

3A) This monitoring would include all print and online sources, national and local TV, and key influencers on social media relating to:

- Administrator
- Brownfields/Superfund/Other cleanups
- Environmental Justice
- Environmental activists
- EPA
- International environmental agreements and disputes
- Toxics/TSCA
- Tribal environmental issues

The following subjects will also be monitored & alerted when directly mentioning or relevant the Administrator or the EPA:

- Budget
- Climate Change
- Emergency Response
- Energy
- Enforcement
- Grants
- Hazardous waste
- Pesticides
- Research and Development
- Rules/Regulations/Policy
- Trash/recycling/composting/solid waste

3B) The monitoring program for the subjects outlined above would incorporate two tracks:

- i. On a daily basis, stories would be compiled into morning and evening matrices of issues identified by your team. The matrix will include a brief summary and analysis as to the coverage. Throughout the day, Definers will alert major stories that our analysts deem pertinent to your strategic objectives, and follow them as they develop, circulate, and gain traction.
- ii. In a breaking news situation, Definers media analysts will work hand-in-hand with your team to monitor for news stories and how they spread throughout the media. Our analysts will provide a quick analysis when needed that identifies what environmental companies are saying, whether stories are positive/negative, and whether or not they incorporate your company's perspective. This quick analysis will help your team more effectively respond to developing news.

3C) Through Definers Console-based war room system the EPA team can be automatically notified via e-mail of news alerts and they can also login and go through the alerts in one convenient location. The Console includes a robust search function that will enable your team to quickly find and filter the stories alerted by Definers.

The EPA will have the ability to use the Definers Console for:

- Proprietary advanced search functions within the clips
- Standalone media clip database including perpetual retention so that information is always available regardless of email retention policies or other limitations of email platforms
- Specially trained and experienced researchers to provide relevant and actionable analysis
- Digital and human analytics coverage throughout the day
- Media tags that are tailored to your company's areas of interests, which allow for quick sorting and tracking of your customized data streams.
- Delivered through our proprietary web interface which allows for email distribution as well.

3D) In order to achieve these task Definers will obtain/maintain subscriptions or licenses for:

- Nexis Lexis
- TV Eyes
- SnapStream
- AP
- Agri-Pulse
- Argus Media
- Axios
- Bloomberg
- Bloomberg BNA

3E) Once contracted EPA will have unlimited access to Definers account managers & to permit last-minute changes to topics, deadlines, and specific guidance from OPA to the contractor regarding stories to be included and the extent of coverage desired.

4) Definers Estimated Cost:

To accomplish your objectives, we anticipate a cost of $120,000 over 12 months. A monthly cost of $10,000 for the Console and Support –see below:

Monthly Cost Breakdown:

$7,500 = Unlimited access to custom built and proprietary Definers Console with breaking news and clip package distribution

$2,500 = One month of analyst support and access based on clip volume (outlined in section 3)

Exclusive: Trump EPA Transition Chief Laments Slow Progress In Killing Green Rules

Reuters

By Valerie Volcovici

May 22, 2017

<https://www.reuters.com/article/us-usa-trump-ebell-exclusive-idUSKBN18I196>

The man who led President Donald Trump's transition team for the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency, Myron Ebell, told a conservative conference last month that the new administration is moving too slowly to unravel climate change regulations.

In closed-door remarks to members of the conservative Jefferson Institute in Virginia on April 18, a recording of which was obtained by Reuters, Ebell said Trump's administration had made a series of missteps, including delays in appointing key EPA officials, that could hamper efforts to cut red tape for industry.

"This is an impending disaster for the Trump administration," Ebell, a prominent climate change doubter, said in the recording provided to the Center for Media and Democracy and shared with Reuters.

Ebell was chosen by Trump's campaign to lead the EPA's transition until the Jan. 20 inauguration, a choice that had reinforced expectations Trump would follow through on promises to rescind Obama-era green rules and pull the United States out of a global pact to fight climate change.

Ebell had been seen as a candidate for the EPA administrator job, a post that ultimately went to former Oklahoma Attorney General Scott Pruitt.

Ebell no longer works at the agency but remains influential within a faction of the U.S. conservative movement with ties to the Trump administration. His criticism reflects a broader disappointment by some conservatives about Pruitt's focus and commitment to scrapping even more complex Obama-era regulations.

Since taking office, Trump and Pruitt have moved to unwind environmental regulations, including former President Barack Obama's Clean Power Plan to reduce carbon emissions from electricity generators.

But his administration has frustrated some conservatives by entertaining the idea of remaining in the Paris Climate Agreement, and hesitating to tackle the Obama-era "endangerment finding" that concludes carbon dioxide is a public health threat and underlies many U.S. regulations governing emissions. Lawyers have said challenging that scientific finding could be time consuming and legally complex.

Pruitt has said he does not want the United States to remain in the Paris agreement but he has not yet decided to tackle the endangerment finding. At least three conservative groups have filed petitions asking the EPA to overturn the finding.

"Paris and the endangerment finding are the two big outstanding issues. It's the first wave of things that are necessary to turn this country around, particularly in the heartland states," Ebell said at the conference.

Ebell cited the slow pace of key EPA appointments, including deputy administrator and various assistant administrators, a lack of experienced personnel at the White House, deep ideological divisions between the president's close advisers, and an "imperfect choice" of EPA administrator, as the main reasons Trump was not acting more aggressively on climate rules.

He said Trump strategists should have allowed his transition team to roll out the full de-regulatory agenda before Trump took office, instead of delaying. "The new president doesn't have long before inertia sets in," he said.

He also found fault in Trump's choice of Pruitt to run the EPA, saying the former state attorney is a "clever lawyer" but his "political ambition" may distract him from taking-on time-consuming efforts like challenging the endangerment finding.

A spokesman for Pruitt responded to Ebell's assertions, saying Pruitt had been implementing Trump's executive orders and had spearheaded "about two dozen regulatory reform actions" since taking up his position.

Ebell also faulted Trump for choosing advisers with broadly different political perspectives and backgrounds - something he said was triggering paralyzing debate, instead of action.

"He's got people on different sides and they are all fighting over who gets these jobs and nobody has the clout except the president to say, 'Hey fix this, let's get this done,'" Ebell said.

In a statement given to Reuters on Saturday, Ebell said he is still concerned about the White House log-jam in nominating people for key EPA posts and the delay in making the Paris decision.

But he said he supports Pruitt as an administrator and is encouraged by his recent actions.

"Pruitt was an excellent choice to head the EPA, and minor disagreements aside, his recent actions have made me even more confident that he will be an outstanding administrator," he said.

A White House official did not respond to a request for comment.

Administrator Pruitt Discusses Plans And Leadership For The Environmental Protection Agency

<http://mms.tveyes.com/transcript.asp?StationID=130&DateTime=5/17/2017%206:47:40%20AM&playclip=true>

Steve: Good morning to you.

Administrator Pruitt: Good morning. Good to be back with you.

Steve: the press made President Obama out to be the environmental savior. And yet, when you look at the number of toxic dumps left on your plate, it's a big number.

Administrator Pruitt: Absolutely. in fact, Ainsley, you said these fights across the country have some of the uranium and lead, posing great risk to the citizens in those areas. And examples where the E.P.A. didn't take any steps at all. We have a site outside of St. Louis called Westlake that's taken the E.P.A. 27 years just to make a decision. Not clean it up, but to make a decision on what should be done to clean it up.

Steve: That crosses both Democrat and Republican administrations.

Administrator Pruitt: Absolutely, and I think when you look at the environmental left they look at the past administration as an environmental savior. When you look at areas of contaminant in this country that don't meet the air quality standards, almost 40% of the country that qualify there. 120 million people. We had Gold King in Colorado. Flint in Michigan with water. The super fund sites across the country. the area that they focused on, the C02 reductions they struck out twice on as far as regulations. The supreme court struck them down twice.

Ainsley: What does this mean for the folks that are watching this? Does this mean can you get cancer if you are exposed to all of this?

Administrator Pruitt: Possibly, yes. And that's why it's so important to focus the core of the mission on those areas. This president is a doer, an action oriented leader. the past administration talked a lot. this administration is actually taking steps to do things to clean up the environment. We're focusing on those areas you mentioned.

Brian: super fund sites that need to be cleaned up. What's your first target?

Administrator Pruitt: We are very focused on Westlake. I was in East Chicago about three weeks ago. a site that has lead as well.

Brian: do you know how to do it?

Administrator Pruitt: We have a plan in place that we're going to announce very soon on Westlake. So it's very important to make those citizens know we are going to take steps to clean up and clean it up quickly.

Ainsley: Mr. Pruitt, we are talking about memos and what's happening in the white house. this is what the American public really needs to be focused on

Steve: our personal safety.

Ainsley: protecting our kids from cancer.

Administrator Pruitt: They want leadership. and this president is providing leadership it in so many areas, and it gets lost in Washington, D.C. malaise in all these areas.

Steve: provide leadership to do what with the environment.”

Administrator Pruitt: Clean up these sites. set a goal and say 1322 sites unacceptable. 27 years to make a decision is unacceptable. Let’s get St. Louis cleaned up.

Steve: how much is it going to cost?

Administrator Pruitt: The great thing about this is we have private funding. There are people out there responsible for these sites to clean up. There is money out there to do so. it's not a matter of money. it's a matter of leadership and attitude and management. we need to do it much better.

brian: when are you going to make a decision on leaving and staying in paris, the paris agreement.

Administrator Pruitt: I think when the president gets back from the G7. I'm actually attending the G7 in early June as well and there will be a decision on Paris. Very important we make decisions there soon.

Brian: it will be one of the big top topics.

Brian: Great to see you.

Subject: EPA Media Support Proposal

1) Overall Scope:

Definers Public Affairs can provide the EPA's Office of Public Affairs (OPA) with comprehensive media monitoring services and analysis focused on alerting the team to developing news stories, building compendiums twice a day on issues you have identified. With analysts on the ground in Washington D.C. and the Bay Area, Definers Public Affairs is able to provide comprehensive media monitoring of coherent information on environmental issues, and EPA actions and policies around the clock.

2) Media Monitoring Scope:

Definers Public Affairs can provide comprehensive war room-style media monitoring focused on stories about Administrator Pruitt and the Environmental Protection Agency. This monitoring would include articles and broadcasts from major U.S. newspapers, national television and cable news, news weeklies, relevant magazines and journals, blogs, specialty press, etc. Stories would be compiled into a daily matrix about Administrator Pruitt (example below). While not alerting stories throughout the day with a campaign-level intensity, Definers will alert major stories as they develop. Examples of a Print Alert and TV Alert are enclosed.

The monitoring will focus on stories about Administrator Pruitt and the EPA outlined in the proposal section below. The ultimate goal of the monitoring is to provide your team with a greater understanding of the Administrator's and Agency's coverage throughout the day.

To achieve this Definers will provide the EPA 4 basic services:

- 2A) delivery, via email, of a twice-daily (Monday through Friday) compendium of news coverage of EPA and environmental issues, including a trend analysis
- 2B) delivery, via email and in near-real-time, of media stories involving events, announcements and issues directly relevant to the EPA, with trend analysis included;
- 2C) delivery, via email and in near-real-time, of media stories on high-priority issues and/or media outlets as determined through ongoing discussions between OPA and the vendor.
- 2D) delivery, via searchable database, of stories gathered under the other assigned tasks as of contract start date.

3) Proposal:

Definers Public Affairs can provide comprehensive war room-style media monitoring focused on alerting your team to news stories as they break and develop from English-language sources.

3A) This monitoring would include all print and online sources, national and local TV, and key influencers on social media relating to:

- Administrator
- Brownfields/Superfund/Other cleanups
- Environmental Justice
- Environmental activists
- EPA
- International environmental agreements and disputes
- Toxics/TSCA
- Tribal environmental issues

The following subjects will also be monitored & alerted when directly mentioning or relevant the Administrator or the EPA:

- Budget
- Climate Change
- Emergency Response
- Energy
- Enforcement
- Grants
- Hazardous waste
- Pesticides
- Research and Development
- Rules/Regulations/Policy
- Trash/recycling/composting/solid waste

3B) The monitoring program for the subjects outlined above would incorporate two tracks:

- i. On a daily basis, stories would be compiled into morning and evening matrices of issues identified by your team. The matrix will include a brief summary and analysis as to the coverage. Throughout the day, Definers will alert major stories that our analysts deem pertinent to your strategic objectives, and follow them as they develop, circulate, and gain traction.
- ii. In a breaking news situation, Definers media analysts will work hand-in-hand with your team to monitor for news stories and how they spread throughout the media. Our analysts will provide a quick analysis when needed that identifies what environmental companies are saying, whether stories are positive/negative, and whether or not they incorporate your company's perspective. This quick analysis will help your team more effectively respond to developing news.

3C) Through Definers Console-based war room system the EPA team can be automatically notified via e-mail of news alerts and they can also login and go through the alerts in one convenient location. The Console includes a robust search function that will enable your team to quickly find and filter the stories alerted by Definers.

The EPA will have the ability to use the Definers Console for:

- Proprietary advanced search functions within the clips

Exclusive: Trump EPA Transition Chief Laments Slow Progress In Killing Green Rules
Reuters

By Valerie Volcovici

May 22, 2017

<https://www.reuters.com/article/us-usa-trump-ebell-exclusive-idUSKBN18I196>

The man who led President Donald Trump's transition team for the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency, Myron Ebell, told a conservative conference last month that the new administration is moving too slowly to unravel climate change regulations.

In closed-door remarks to members of the conservative Jefferson Institute in Virginia on April 18, a recording of which was obtained by Reuters, Ebell said Trump's administration had made a series of missteps, including delays in appointing key EPA officials, that could hamper efforts to cut red tape for industry.

"This is an impending disaster for the Trump administration," Ebell, a prominent climate change doubter, said in the recording provided to the Center for Media and Democracy and shared with Reuters.

Ebell was chosen by Trump's campaign to lead the EPA's transition until the Jan. 20 inauguration, a choice that had reinforced expectations Trump would follow through on promises to rescind Obama-era green rules and pull the United States out of a global pact to fight climate change.

Ebell had been seen as a candidate for the EPA administrator job, a post that ultimately went to former Oklahoma Attorney General Scott Pruitt.

Ebell no longer works at the agency but remains influential within a faction of the U.S. conservative movement with ties to the Trump administration. His criticism reflects a broader disappointment by some conservatives about Pruitt's focus and commitment to scrapping even more complex Obama-era regulations.

Since taking office, Trump and Pruitt have moved to unwind environmental regulations, including former President Barack Obama's Clean Power Plan to reduce carbon emissions from electricity generators.

But his administration has frustrated some conservatives by entertaining the idea of remaining in the Paris Climate Agreement, and hesitating to tackle the Obama-era "endangerment finding" that concludes carbon dioxide is a public health threat and underlies many U.S. regulations governing emissions. Lawyers have said challenging that scientific finding could be time consuming and legally complex.

Pruitt has said he does not want the United States to remain in the Paris agreement but he has not yet decided to tackle the endangerment finding. At least three conservative groups have filed petitions asking the EPA to overturn the finding.

"Paris and the endangerment finding are the two big outstanding issues. It's the first wave of things that are necessary to turn this country around, particularly in the heartland states," Ebell said at the conference.

Ebell cited the slow pace of key EPA appointments, including deputy administrator and various assistant administrators, a lack of experienced personnel at the White House, deep ideological divisions between the president's close advisers, and an "imperfect choice" of EPA administrator, as the main reasons Trump was not acting more aggressively on climate rules.

He said Trump strategists should have allowed his transition team to roll out the full de-regulatory agenda before Trump took office, instead of delaying. "The new president doesn't have long before inertia sets in," he said.

He also found fault in Trump's choice of Pruitt to run the EPA, saying the former state attorney is a "clever lawyer" but his "political ambition" may distract him from taking-on time-consuming efforts like challenging the endangerment finding.

A spokesman for Pruitt responded to Ebell's assertions, saying Pruitt had been implementing Trump's executive orders and had spearheaded "about two dozen regulatory reform actions" since taking up his position.

Ebell also faulted Trump for choosing advisers with broadly different political perspectives and backgrounds - something he said was triggering paralyzing debate, instead of action.

"He's got people on different sides and they are all fighting over who gets these jobs and nobody has the clout except the president to say, 'Hey fix this, let's get this done,'" Ebell said.

In a statement given to Reuters on Saturday, Ebell said he is still concerned about the White House log-jam in nominating people for key EPA posts and the delay in making the Paris decision.

But he said he supports Pruitt as an administrator and is encouraged by his recent actions.

"Pruitt was an excellent choice to head the EPA, and minor disagreements aside, his recent actions have made me even more confident that he will be an outstanding administrator," he said.

A White House official did not respond to a request for comment.

Administrator Pruitt Discusses Plans And Leadership For The Environmental Protection Agency

<http://mms.tveyes.com/transcript.asp?StationID=130&DateTime=5/17/2017%206:47:40%20AM&playclip=true>

Steve: Good morning to you.

Administrator Pruitt: Good morning. Good to be back with you.

Steve: the press made President Obama out to be the environmental savior. And yet, when you look at the number of toxic dumps left on your plate, it's a big number.

Administrator Pruitt: Absolutely. in fact, Ainsley, you said these fights across the country have some of the uranium and lead, posing great risk to the citizens in those areas. And examples where the E.P.A. didn't take any steps at all. We have a site outside of St. Louis called Westlake that's taken the E.P.A. 27 years just to make a decision. Not clean it up, but to make a decision on what should be done to clean it up.

Steve: That crosses both Democrat and Republican administrations.

Administrator Pruitt: Absolutely, and I think when you look at the environmental left they look at the past administration as an environmental savior. When you look at areas of contaminant in this country that don't meet the air quality standards, almost 40% of the country that qualify there. 120 million people. We had Gold King in Colorado. Flint in Michigan with water. The super fund sites across the country. the area that they focused on, the C02 reductions they struck out twice on as far as regulations. The supreme court struck them down twice.

Ainsley: What does this mean for the folks that are watching this? Does this mean can you get cancer if you are exposed to all of this?

Administrator Pruitt: Possibly, yes. And that's why it's so important to focus the core of the mission on those areas. This president is a doer, an action oriented leader. the past administration talked a lot. this administration is actually taking steps to do things to clean up the environment. We're focusing on those areas you mentioned.

Brian: super fund sites that need to be cleaned up. What's your first target?

Administrator Pruitt: We are very focused on Westlake. I was in East Chicago about three weeks ago. a site that has lead as well.

Brian: do you know how to do it?

Administrator Pruitt: We have a plan in place that we're going to announce very soon on Westlake. So it's very important to make those citizens know we are going to take steps to clean up and clean it up quickly.

Ainsley: Mr. Pruitt, we are talking about memos and what's happening in the white house. this is what the

American public really needs to be focused on

Steve: our personal safety.

Ainsley: protecting our kids from cancer.

Administrator Pruitt: They want leadership. and this president is providing leadership it in so many areas, and it gets lost in Washington, D.C. malaise in all these areas.

Steve: provide leadership to do what with the environment.”

Administrator Pruitt: Clean up these sites. set a goal and say 1322 sites unacceptable. 27 years to make a decision is unacceptable. Let's get St. Louis cleaned up.

Steve: how much is it going to cost?

Administrator Pruitt: The great thing about this is we have private funding. There are people out there responsible for these sites to clean up. There is money out there to do so. it's not a matter of money. it's a matter of leadership and attitude and management. we need to do it much better.

brian: when are you going to make a decision on leaving and staying in paris, the paris agreement.

Administrator Pruitt: I think when the president gets back from the G7. I'm actually attending the G7 in early June as well and there will be a decision on Paris. Very important we make decisions there soon.

Brian: it will be one of the big top topics.

Brian: Great to see you.

Ebell had been seen as a candidate for the EPA administrator job, a post that ultimately went to former Oklahoma Attorney General Scott Pruitt.

Ebell no longer works at the agency but remains influential within a faction of the U.S. conservative movement with ties to the Trump administration. His criticism reflects a broader disappointment by some conservatives about Pruitt's focus and commitment to scrapping even more complex Obama-era regulations.

Since taking office, Trump and Pruitt have moved to unwind environmental regulations, including former President Barack Obama's Clean Power Plan to reduce carbon emissions from electricity generators.

But his administration has frustrated some conservatives by entertaining the idea of remaining in the Paris Climate Agreement, and hesitating to tackle the Obama-era "endangerment finding" that concludes carbon dioxide is a public health threat and underlies many U.S. regulations governing emissions. Lawyers have said challenging that scientific finding could be time consuming and legally complex.

Pruitt has said he does not want the United States to remain in the Paris agreement but he has not yet decided to tackle the endangerment finding. At least three conservative groups have filed petitions asking the EPA to overturn the finding.

"Paris and the endangerment finding are the two big outstanding issues. It's the first wave of things that are necessary to turn this country around, particularly in the heartland states," Ebell said at the conference.

Ebell cited the slow pace of key EPA appointments, including deputy administrator and various assistant administrators, a lack of experienced personnel at the White House, deep ideological divisions between the president's close advisers, and an "imperfect choice" of EPA administrator, as the main reasons Trump was not acting more aggressively on climate rules.

He said Trump strategists should have allowed his transition team to roll out the full de-regulatory agenda before Trump took office, instead of delaying. "The new president doesn't have long before inertia sets in," he said.

He also found fault in Trump's choice of Pruitt to run the EPA, saying the former state attorney is a "clever lawyer" but his "political ambition" may distract him from taking-on time-consuming efforts like challenging the endangerment finding.

A spokesman for Pruitt responded to Ebell's assertions, saying Pruitt had been implementing Trump's executive orders and had spearheaded "about two dozen regulatory reform actions" since taking up his position.

Ebell also faulted Trump for choosing advisers with broadly different political perspectives and backgrounds - something he said was triggering paralyzing debate, instead of action.

"He's got people on different sides and they are all fighting over who gets these jobs and nobody has the clout except the president to say, 'Hey fix this, let's get this done,'" Ebell said.

In a statement given to Reuters on Saturday, Ebell said he is still concerned about the White House log-jam in nominating people for key EPA posts and the delay in making the Paris decision.

But he said he supports Pruitt as an administrator and is encouraged by his recent actions.

"Pruitt was an excellent choice to head the EPA, and minor disagreements aside, his recent actions have made me even more confident that he will be an outstanding administrator," he said.

A White House official did not respond to a request for comment.

Steve: Good morning to you.

Administrator Pruitt: Good morning. Good to be back with you.

Steve: the press made President Obama out to be the environmental savior. And yet, when you look at the number of toxic dumps left on your plate, it's a big number.

Administrator Pruitt: Absolutely. in fact, Ainsley, you said these fights across the country have some of the uranium and lead, posing great risk to the citizens in those areas. And examples where the E.P.A. didn't take any steps at all. We have a site outside of St. Louis called Westlake that's taken the E.P.A. 27 years just to make a decision. Not clean it up, but to make a decision on what should be done to clean it up.

Steve: That crosses both Democrat and Republican administrations.

Administrator Pruitt: Absolutely, and I think when you look at the environmental left they look at the past administration as an environmental savior. When you look at areas of contaminant in this country that don't meet the air quality standards, almost 40% of the country that qualify there. 120 million people. We had Gold King in Colorado. Flint in Michigan with water. The super fund sites across the country. the area that they focused on, the C02 reductions they struck out twice on as far as regulations. The supreme court struck them down twice.

Ainsley: What does this mean for the folks that are watching this? Does this mean can you get cancer if you are exposed to all of this?

Administrator Pruitt: Possibly, yes. And that's why it's so important to focus the core of the mission on those areas. This president is a doer, an action oriented leader. the past administration talked a lot. this administration is actually taking steps to do things to clean up the environment. We're focusing on those areas you mentioned.

Brian: super fund sites that need to be cleaned up. What's your first target?

Administrator Pruitt: We are very focused on Westlake. I was in East Chicago about three weeks ago. a site that has lead as well.

Brian: do you know how to do it?

Administrator Pruitt: We have a plan in place that we're going to announce very soon on Westlake. So it's very important to make those citizens know we are going to take steps to clean up and clean it up quickly.

Ainsley: Mr. Pruitt, we are talking about memos and what's happening in the white house. this is what the

American public really needs to be focused on

Steve: our personal safety.

Ainsley: protecting our kids from cancer.

Administrator Pruitt: They want leadership. and this president is providing leadership it in so many areas, and it gets lost in Washington, D.C. malaise in all these areas.

Steve: provide leadership to do what with the environment.”

Administrator Pruitt: Clean up these sites. set a goal and say 1322 sites unacceptable. 27 years to make a decision is unacceptable. Let’s get St. Louis cleaned up.

Steve: how much is it going to cost?

Administrator Pruitt: The great thing about this is we have private funding. There are people out there responsible for these sites to clean up. There is money out there to do so. it's not a matter of money. it's a matter of leadership and attitude and management. we need to do it much better.

brian: when are you going to make a decision on leaving and staying in paris, the paris agreement.

Administrator Pruitt: I think when the president gets back from the G7. I'm actually attending the G7 in early June as well and there will be a decision on Paris. Very important we make decisions there soon.

Brian: it will be one of the big top topics.

Brian: Great to see you.

DECISION

Fenton Communications and New Heights Communications protest the award of contract No. EP18H000025 for news clipping services to Definers Corporation by the Environmental Protection Agency. The protesters contend that the agency improperly awarded the subject contract on a sole-source basis.

Subsequent to the filing of this protest, the agency notified our Office that it is terminating the awarded contract. When an agency terminates an awardee's contract, the agency's action renders a protest academic. We do not consider academic protests. The Honorable Scott Pruitt
Administrator
Environmental Protection Agency
1200 Pennsylvania Avenue NW
Washington, D.C. 20460

Dear Administrator Pruitt:

We are writing you to express our concerns about the decision by the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) to award a $120,000 no-bid contract for “news analysis” to Definers Public Affairs, as reported this week by *Mother Jones*¹ and the New York Times.² EPA’s contract with Definers risks further politicizing the agency and is another instance of EPA under your tenure becoming captured by the industry it regulates.³ At a minimum, it presents an appearance of impropriety to which you as Administrator should never be a party. For the reasons that follow, you should terminate this contract immediately.

Definers shares an address and staff with America Rising, a political action committee (PAC) that has been described as the “unofficial research arm of the Republican party.”⁴ America Rising has branded itself as an organization on the right founded “for the sole purpose of exposing the truth about Democrats through video tracking, research, and communications.”⁵ The group spends its time attacking Democrats, progressives, and environmentalists and lists Definers as one of its largest vendors.⁶ America Rising also operates the 501(c)(4) organization America Rising Squared, a dark money organization whose contributors are anonymous. The leadership teams of America Rising and Definers share numerous individuals. For example, Definers’ founder, Matt Rhoades, also founded America Rising.⁷ Definers’ president, Joe Pounder, is also the president of America Rising.⁸ Definers’ Senior Vice President, Brian Rogers, is also the executive director of America Rising Squared.⁹ These organizations may have different corporate forms, but we should all be clear that they are merely different parts of the same multi-faceted partisan operation. Any claim they are distinct is a sham.

What's more, America Rising and Definers receive significant funds from interests in the energy sector as well as other industries you regulate as EPA Administrator. While this cabal of Republican opposition research and electioneering organizations can raise much of its money anonymously so that the identities of many of its donors are unknown to the public, press reports about Definers' work and Federal Election Commission (FEC) disclosures from the America Rising PAC make it abundantly clear that companies you regulate are driving much of its work. Definers was hired by fossil fuel interests to work on opposing a local ballot initiative in Colorado that would have placed conditions on oil and gas drilling.¹⁰ America Rising has received sizeable donations from several companies and individuals affiliated with the energy industry, including Hilcorp Energy, L.E. Simmons of SCF Partners, and Jonathon Barrett of Luminus Management LLC. It has also received donations from companies and individuals in other industries regulated by EPA, including Susan Groff of Northwest Excavating, William Kunkler of CC Industries (manufacturing), George Daniels of Daniels Manufacturing, and Jerry Langer of Langer Transport.¹¹

Many of these same corporate interests vocally supported your nomination and confirmation as EPA Administrator. America Rising even ran a campaign in support of your confirmation as EPA Administrator which included ads urging senators to vote for your confirmation and the website, www.ConfirmPruitt.com.¹² At your confirmation hearing, Senator Whitehouse asked you the following question for the record, which has renewed relevance in light of recent events:

Q 138. Please provide any correspondence or details about other communication between you or anyone working on your behalf concerning the establishment or activities of America Rising, America Rising Squared, and Protecting America Now, and any other organizations that are funding efforts to get you confirmed as EPA Administrator.

A. I am not aware of any such correspondence.

Your response was dubious then, and is even more dubious now.

The America Rising-Definers network has been no less active on your behalf following your confirmation than it was before, even putting aside this recent contract. The aforementioned Joe Pounder, president of Definers and America Rising, wears yet another hat in this constellation of interconnected partisan groups: he runs a website called the Need to Know Network (NTK) that has provided favorable coverage of your tenure at EPA.¹³ EPA's official Twitter account has even on several occasions tweeted NTK's coverage of your work at EPA.

¹³ "Scott Pruitt's media echo chamber," Grist, <http://grist.org/article/scott-pruitts-media-echo-chamber/>

As if all this weren't enough, Definers has filed several Freedom of Information Act (FOIA) requests with EPA relating to work EPA was doing under the previous administration with respect to the treatment of wood.¹⁴ It would appear that Definers is working for a corporate client that has business before EPA relating to this matter. America Rising has also filed several FOIA requests with EPA.¹⁵ These requests were filed by the same person who filed the FOIA requests for Definers; this person works at both Definers and America Rising.¹⁶ America Rising's FOIA requests seek to obtain emails from specific EPA employees and/or correspondence between specific EPA employees and various media outlets as well as the staffs of Senators Sheldon Whitehouse, Tom Carper, Elizabeth Warren, and Robert Casey in an apparent effort to uncover "moles" within EPA.

The New York Times has recently documented how EPA enforcement has fallen off significantly during your tenure.¹⁷ Senators Carper and Whitehouse last week raised concerns that you have changed agency policy to give regulated industries an unprecedented seat at the table in negotiations to settle lawsuits where EPA is charged with failing to follow through on its statutory commitments to enforce the Clean Air Act and other environmental laws. Hiring a public relations firm with abundant ties to industries you regulate, which is itself part of a broader network of groups active on behalf of you and fossil fuel interests, suggests that you have handed industry the keys to EPA.

None of this can come as a surprise to you. In 2015, America Rising paid to attend the Republican Attorneys General Association (RAGA) annual summit at which you spoke.¹⁸ You led RAGA for two years, where you worked through RAGA to attack EPA during the Obama administration.

Your representatives have claimed that EPA's contract with Definers is for "media monitoring/newsclip compilation"¹⁹ and that it was retained "at a rate that is $87,000 cheaper than our previous vendor and they are providing no other services."²⁰ All of the above information about Definers, its activities, clients, and role within a much larger ecosystem of partisan, industry-funded operations research and electioneering groups casts significant doubt on these statements.

In light of the above and in order to shed light on EPA's decision to award this contract, we are asking that you provide the following documents and responses by Thursday, December 21.

2. What provision of the Federal Acquisition Regulation (FAR) authorized a no-bid contract for the type of services EPA procured from Definers? The Honorable Scott Pruitt
Administrator
U.S. Environmental Protection Agency
1200 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20460

Dear Administrator Pruitt:

We write to express our serious concerns regarding the awarding of a $120,000 no-bid contract¹ (“Contract”) by the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) to Definers Public Affairs (“Definers”) to provide “news analysis and brief service focusing on EPA work and other topics of interest to EPA.”² The awarding of this contract without full and open competition³ to a company with no apparent experience in providing these services to a Federal agency⁴ is concerning enough on its own. However, the political activities and affiliations of Definers make this action more alarming.⁵ While Definers recently terminated the contract with EPA, we have outstanding questions regarding EPA’s selection of Definers and whether the Contract was an appropriate use of taxpayer dollars.

Federal records show that on December 7, 2017 EPA contracted with Definers for a total contract value of $120,000 in a contract not submitted to full and open competition.⁶ Additionally, The Hill reported that EPA will utilize the company’s “Definers Console” which, according to Definers’ marketing materials, is a “war room” for “media monitoring/newsclip compilation.”⁷ Definers describes the war room as a tool allowing the firm “to identify and react immediately to opportunities arising out of the news cycle and to flag potential challenges and crises before they take on a life of their own.”⁸

This vague description becomes particularly concerning given the other services offered by Definers. The firm offers lobbying services, including “recruiting and mobilizing constituents, local authorities, like minded organizations, and non-traditional allies.” Clearly, these are services which would constitute a violation of the antilobbying prohibitions if included in the EPA contract. Other services offered include working “to validate your [the client’s] narrative through the press and social media platforms” and “interface[ing] directly with reporters and editors both on and off the record, protecting our clients’ identity when desired.” These services, if included in the scope of the contract, would violate the prohibition on covert propaganda by federal agencies.

Especially concerning, Definers offers clients “dossiers on opponents, competitors and agitators ... packaged in easily digestible, media friendly formats.” We are also deeply troubled that individuals on Definers staff have been involved in a “witch hunt against E.P.A. employees” that may have publicly or privately expressed concerns about the Agency or its leadership. According to a December 17, 2017 article in The New York Times,⁹ a Senior Vice President of Definers made several Freedom of Information Act (FOIA) requests targeting individual EPA employees who may have either expressed concerns about the direction of the Agency to meet its statutory missions of protecting human health or the environment. The New York Times reports that the targeted actions may have included private conversations at an off-site luncheon, a letter to Administrator Pruitt, or attendance at a rally protesting budgetary cuts to the agency.¹⁰

We have become increasingly concerned about the secrecy and lack of transparency from your administration, and this latest report is an alarming new development. Hiring a firm that offers services attacking the press and surveilling your employees threatens the functioning of your agency and potentially the freedom of the press guaranteed by our Constitution.

We request that you respond to the following by January 19, 2018:

1. What was your role in selecting Definers for this award? In addition to yourself, which EPA political appointees were involved in selecting Definers? Please provide all communications between yourself and all other EPA political appointees and any Definers representative between February 17, 2017 and December 7, 2017.

2. Were you or other EPA political appointees aware of the FOIA requests filed by Definers employees against individual agency employees before the contract was awarded? Were those FOIA requests considered in the identification of Definers as a potential candidate for the Contract, or a factor in ultimately awarding the Contract?
3. Was Definers, America Rising, or any of their agents involved in creating or funding the website ConfirmPruitt.com?
4. Were you, any of your agents, or any current EPA employees involved in generating or reviewing the content of the website ConfirmPruitt.com, or providing or raising funds for the site? Did any representative of Definers, America Rising, or America Rising Squared generate or review content for the website?
5. What work did Definers perform for EPA pursuant to the contract? Please provide a list of all services performed by Definers for EPA during the duration of the contract, including the date, the service provided, time required, the itemized cost, and the name of the Definers employee who performed the work. What was the total amount of taxpayer funds EPA paid Definers during the duration of the contract? Please provide copies of all communications between EPA and any representative of Definers, America Rising, America Rising Squared, and the Need to Know Network during calendar year 2017.
6. On December 10, The New York Times published an article identifying an alarming decrease in enforcement actions brought by the EPA during your administration.¹¹ EPA issued an unusual press release in response, which has since been removed from the Agency website but continues to be cited by conservative media sources. What role did Definers play in the agency's response to the December 10th article? Provide any correspondence between EPA and any representative of Definers, America Rising, America Rising Squared, and the Need to Know Network regarding the December 10th article.
7. What firewalls were in place in the contract with Definers Corp to ensure that Definers firewalled the media monitoring services provided under the Contract from its services that would violate the Publicity or Propaganda Prohibition and Anti-Lobbying provisions?
8. Please provide a copy of the contract between EPA and Definers Corp. including any statement of work.

The Honorable Scott Pruitt
Administrator
Environmental Protection Agency
1200 Pennsylvania Avenue NW
Washington, D.C. 20460

Dear Administrator Pruitt:

We are writing you to express our concerns about the decision by the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) to award a $120,000 no-bid contract for “news analysis” to Definers Public Affairs, as reported this week by *Mother Jones*¹ and the New York Times.² EPA’s contract with Definers risks further politicizing the agency and is another instance of EPA under your tenure becoming captured by the industry it regulates.³ At a minimum, it presents an appearance of impropriety to which you as Administrator should never be a party. For the reasons that follow, you should terminate this contract immediately.

Definers shares an address and staff with America Rising, a political action committee (PAC) that has been described as the “unofficial research arm of the Republican party.”⁴ America Rising has branded itself as an organization on the right founded “for the sole purpose of exposing the truth about Democrats through video tracking, research, and communications.”⁵ The group spends its time attacking Democrats, progressives, and environmentalists and lists Definers as one of its largest vendors.⁶ America Rising also operates the 501(c)(4) organization America Rising Squared, a dark money organization whose contributors are anonymous. The leadership teams of America Rising and Definers share numerous individuals. For example, Definers’ founder, Matt Rhoades, also founded America Rising.⁷ Definers’ president, Joe Pounder, is also the president of America Rising.⁸ Definers’ Senior Vice President, Brian Rogers, is also the executive director of America Rising Squared.⁹ These organizations may have different corporate forms, but we should all be clear that they are merely different parts of the same multi-faceted partisan operation. Any claim they are distinct is a sham.

What's more, America Rising and Definers receive significant funds from interests in the energy sector as well as other industries you regulate as EPA Administrator. While this cabal of Republican opposition research and electioneering organizations can raise much of its money anonymously so that the identities of many of its donors are unknown to the public, press reports about Definers' work and Federal Election Commission (FEC) disclosures from the America Rising PAC make it abundantly clear that companies you regulate are driving much of its work. Definers was hired by fossil fuel interests to work on opposing a local ballot initiative in Colorado that would have placed conditions on oil and gas drilling.¹⁰ America Rising has received sizeable donations from several companies and individuals affiliated with the energy industry, including Hilcorp Energy, L.E. Simmons of SCF Partners, and Jonathon Barrett of Luminus Management LLC. It has also received donations from companies and individuals in other industries regulated by EPA, including Susan Groff of Northwest Excavating, William Kunkler of CC Industries (manufacturing), George Daniels of Daniels Manufacturing, and Jerry Langer of Langer Transport.¹¹

Many of these same corporate interests vocally supported your nomination and confirmation as EPA Administrator. America Rising even ran a campaign in support of your confirmation as EPA Administrator which included ads urging senators to vote for your confirmation and the website, www.ConfirmPruitt.com.¹² At your confirmation hearing, Senator Whitehouse asked you the following question for the record, which has renewed relevance in light of recent events:

Q 138. Please provide any correspondence or details about other communication between you or anyone working on your behalf concerning the establishment or activities of America Rising, America Rising Squared, and Protecting America Now, and any other organizations that are funding efforts to get you confirmed as EPA Administrator.

A. I am not aware of any such correspondence.

Your response was dubious then, and is even more dubious now.

The America Rising-Definers network has been no less active on your behalf following your confirmation than it was before, even putting aside this recent contract. The aforementioned Joe Pounder, president of Definers and America Rising, wears yet another hat in this constellation of interconnected partisan groups: he runs a website called the Need to Know Network (NTK) that has provided favorable coverage of your tenure at EPA.¹³ EPA's official Twitter account has even on several occasions tweeted NTK's coverage of your work at EPA.

As if all this weren't enough, Definers has filed several Freedom of Information Act (FOIA) requests with EPA relating to work EPA was doing under the previous administration with respect to the treatment of wood.¹⁴ It would appear that Definers is working for a corporate client that has business before EPA relating to this matter. America Rising has also filed several FOIA requests with EPA.¹⁵ These requests were filed by the same person who filed the FOIA requests for Definers; this person works at both Definers and America Rising.¹⁶ America Rising's FOIA requests seek to obtain emails from specific EPA employees and/or correspondence between specific EPA employees and various media outlets as well as the staffs of Senators Sheldon Whitehouse, Tom Carper, Elizabeth Warren, and Robert Casey in an apparent effort to uncover "moles" within EPA.

The New York Times has recently documented how EPA enforcement has fallen off significantly during your tenure.¹⁷ Senators Carper and Whitehouse last week raised concerns that you have changed agency policy to give regulated industries an unprecedented seat at the table in negotiations to settle lawsuits where EPA is charged with failing to follow through on its statutory commitments to enforce the Clean Air Act and other environmental laws. Hiring a public relations firm with abundant ties to industries you regulate, which is itself part of a broader network of groups active on behalf of you and fossil fuel interests, suggests that you have handed industry the keys to EPA.

None of this can come as a surprise to you. In 2015, America Rising paid to attend the Republican Attorneys General Association (RAGA) annual summit at which you spoke.¹⁸ You led RAGA for two years, where you worked through RAGA to attack EPA during the Obama administration.

Your representatives have claimed that EPA's contract with Definers is for "media monitoring/newsclip compilation"¹⁹ and that it was retained "at a rate that is $87,000 cheaper than our previous vendor and they are providing no other services."²⁰ All of the above information about Definers, its activities, clients, and role within a much larger ecosystem of partisan, industry-funded operations research and electioneering groups casts significant doubt on these statements.

In light of the above and in order to shed light on EPA's decision to award this contract, we are asking that you provide the following documents and responses by Thursday, December 21.

1. Provide copies of all documents related to the procurement of services with Definers as well as the contract EPA concluded with Definers for these services.
2. What provision of the Federal Acquisition Regulation (FAR) authorized a no-bid contract for the type of services EPA procured from Definers? According to the contract transaction details posted on the usaspending.gov website, the reason not to put this contract out to bid was that there was “only one source – other.”²¹ Please explain what this means when in fact there are many firms that offer the services for which EPA contracted with Definers, including the firm that previously did that work.
3. Provide copies of all communications between EPA and Definers, America Rising, America Rising Squared, NTK, and any employees and representatives of these entities since February 17, 2017.
4. Confirm that all communications you or any EPA employee have had with any person in question 3, regardless of the form of communication used, have been retained by EPA and searched in response to this inquiry.
5. Provide communications or documentation to establish that no EPA funds paid to Definers or any affiliated group have been spent for “publicity or propaganda” or a “prepackaged news story” in violation of sections 715, 718 or 731 of division E of the Consolidated Appropriations Act, 2017.
6. Provide communications or documentation to establish that no EPA funds paid to Definers or any affiliated group have been spent with the intent or the reasonable expectation that the funds would be used to make a contribution, expenditure, independent expenditure, or disbursement for an electioneering communication in violation of section 735 of division E of the Consolidated Appropriations Act, 2017.
7. Provide all communications between EPA and the Definers – America Rising network as to and regulated entities that are also clients of or donors to Definers – America Rising. Describe and provide all communications related to EPA’s due diligence efforts to determine if any conflicts of interest existed between the agency and regulated entities that are clients of or donors to Definers – America Rising. Provide all communications to or from EPA related to Broomfield, CO, ballot initiative Question 301 this year.²²
8. Provide documentation or, if not available, a narrative description of the processes and procedures in place to ensure no client or funder of Definers-America Rising or any related entity can exert improper influence over EPA enforcement proceedings or litigation.
9. Provide all communications between EPA and the Definers – America Rising – NTK network of affiliated groups relating to EPA employee communications that were requested under FOIA by anyone from the Definers – America Rising – NTK network of affiliated groups. 10. Explain how the facts described above – America Rising’s active financial support of your confirmation as well as your earlier political career, NTK’s favorable press coverage of your tenure at EPA, Definer’s working on behalf of regulated entities, regulated entities funding America Rising’s work – do not constitute a series of conflicts of interest. We would be particularly interested to learn why you believe that scientists who are awarded EPA grant money are conflicted while the Definers – America Rising – NTK network is not.

MEMORANDUM

SUBJECT: Request for Sole Source Purchase Award

FROM: Nancy Grantham, Acting Principal Deputy Associate Administrator
Office of Public Affairs

TO: Jessica Wilson, Contracting Officer
Headquarters Procurement Operations Division, PCSC/OAM (3803r)

DATE: December 7, 2017

This letter serves to justify the sole source purchase of services from Definers for media clip and war rooms media services.

Definers offers intensive, near live-time "war room" coverage of media stories for specific topics, events or announcements. They also provide access to a searchable database of EPA topics and issues while compiling news articles delivered by email daily.

The vendor has a customizable and proprietary Console which brings together cutting-edge technology and human analysis to provide real-time actionable intelligence based on the most relevant information. It allows organizations to have a holistic view of what is occurring in the public domain with regards to their organization and relevant sectors, both domestically and globally.

This service is vital to EPA's Office of Public Affairs to fully monitor and respond quickly to breaking media coverage. This service also directly supports the Administrator and other senior EPA officials by providing them with timely updates on media stories. I believe it is of the best value to the agency to pursue this contract.

Dear Administrator Pruitt:

I write to request further information on the process for awarding a $120,000 no-bid contract¹ ("Contract") by the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) to Definers Public Affairs ("Definers") to provide "news analysis and brief service focusing on EPA work and other topics of interest to EPA."² While I am aware of press reports that EPA and Definers may have agreed to cancel this contract,³ I request this information for Congressional oversight of the process by which EPA provided notice and solicited offers for this work, and identified and awarded Definers the contract for this work.

According to Federal records, on December 7, 2017, EPA contracted with Definers for a total contract value of $120,000 in a contract not submitted for full and open competition.⁴ According to The Hill, EPA planned to utilize the company's "Definers Console" which, according to Definers' marketing materials, is a "war room" for "media monitoring/newsclip compilation".⁵

An online summary of the Contract states that it was not submitted to full and open competition, citing an "ONLY ONE SOURCE - OTHER" exception.⁶ However, in a news article,

⁶ EPA Award, supra note 1.

EPA spokesperson, Nancy Grantham, stated, “When the government seeks to sole-source a contract, notice must be placed on FedConnect or FedBizOps so other vendors have an opportunity to provide documentation of their ability to provide the services outlined in the contract scope of work... In this case, one additional vendor responded with their qualifications and the media/news clips contract was awarded to Definers.”⁷ This statement from EPA seems to suggest that Definers was not the only company that responded to EPA’s contract solicitation, and that EPA may have received multiple bids from vendors in response to this solicitation and notice.

In the same story, the EPA spokesperson stated that the Definers Contract was “$87,000 cheaper than our previous media monitoring vendor,”⁸ which, again, suggests that other companies were potentially available to provide similar services.

I also request further information on your personal involvement, or the involvement of the political staff of EPA, in the identification of Definers as a potential candidate for the Contract. I am aware that your Senior Communications Advisor worked with two current Definers staff during the Rubio for President Campaign.⁹ I am also well aware that several Definers staff are previous founders, leaders, and employees of the American Rising PAC, a political video tracking firm that targets Democratic candidates for elected office.¹⁰ Similarly, several current Definers staff also hold positions with other political organizations, such as America Rising Squared or Reclaim Connecticut¹¹—both organizations that appear to target the “Environmentalism Left... and exposing their extreme rhetoric and agenda.”¹² Yet, while the staff of Definers have a partisan reputation and history of campaign work for Republican causes, I see no evidence that Definers has any prior experience in providing “news analysis and brief service focusing on EPA work and other topics of interest to EPA”, as required by the contract.

The only EPA-related experience I could uncover by Definers staff is the reported “witch hunt against EPA employees” alleged to have expressed concerns about the agency or its leadership. According to The New York Times, a Senior Vice President of Definers, Allan Blutstein, has made several Freedom of Information Act (FOIA) requests targeting individual EPA employees who, Mr. Blutstein alleges, have raised concerns about the ability of the agency to meet its statutory missions of protection of human health and the environment. In only a cursory look at FOIAonline, in calendar year 2017, Mr. Blutstein made 25 FOIA requests of EPA on behalf of America Rising—20 of which specifically target the individual emails of EPA staff to various news organizations or Congressional offices. While the specific intentions of Mr. Blutstein are not known, the fact that you were willing to hire a company that would personally and publically target your employees for potential harassment portends a type of personnel management taken right out of George Orwell’s 1984.

Dear Administrator Pruitt:

We write to express our serious concerns regarding the awarding of a $120,000 no-bid contract¹ (“Contract”) by the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) to Definers Public Affairs (“Definers”) to provide “news analysis and brief service focusing on EPA work and other topics of interest to EPA.”² The awarding of this contract without full and open competition³ to a company with no apparent experience in providing these services to a Federal agency⁴ is concerning enough on its own. However, the political activities and affiliations of Definers make this action more alarming.⁵ While Definers recently terminated the contract with EPA, we have outstanding questions regarding EPA’s selection of Definers and whether the Contract was an appropriate use of taxpayer dollars.

Federal records show that on December 7, 2017 EPA contracted with Definers for a total contract value of $120,000 in a contract not submitted to full and open competition.⁶ Additionally, The Hill reported that EPA will utilize the company’s “Definers Console” which, according to Definers’ marketing materials, is a “war room” for “media monitoring/newsclip compilation.”⁷ Definers describes the war room as a tool allowing the firm “to identify and react immediately to opportunities arising out of the news cycle and to flag potential challenges and crises before they take on a life of their own.”⁸

This vague description becomes particularly concerning given the other services offered by Definers. The firm offers lobbying services, including “recruiting and mobilizing constituents, local authorities, like minded organizations, and non-traditional allies.” Clearly, these are services which would constitute a violation of the antilobbying prohibitions if included in the EPA contract. Other services offered include working “to validate your [the client’s] narrative through the press and social media platforms” and “interface[ing] directly with reporters and editors both on and off the record, protecting our clients’ identity when desired.” These services, if included in the scope of the contract, would violate the prohibition on covert propaganda by federal agencies.

Especially concerning, Definers offers clients “dossiers on opponents, competitors and agitators ... packaged in easily digestible, media friendly formats.” We are also deeply troubled that individuals on Definers staff have been involved in a “witch hunt against E.P.A. employees” that may have publicly or privately expressed concerns about the Agency or its leadership. According to a December 17, 2017 article in The New York Times,⁹ a Senior Vice President of Definers made several Freedom of Information Act (FOIA) requests targeting individual EPA employees who may have either expressed concerns about the direction of the Agency to meet its statutory missions of protecting human health or the environment. The New York Times reports that the targeted actions may have included private conversations at an off-site luncheon, a letter to Administrator Pruitt, or attendance at a rally protesting budgetary cuts to the agency.¹⁰

We have become increasingly concerned about the secrecy and lack of transparency from your administration, and this latest report is an alarming new development. Hiring a firm that offers services attacking the press and surveilling your employees threatens the functioning of your agency and potentially the freedom of the press guaranteed by our Constitution.

We request that you respond to the following by January 19, 2018:

1. What was your role in selecting Definers for this award? In addition to yourself, which EPA political appointees were involved in selecting Definers? Please provide all communications between yourself and all other EPA political appointees and any Definers representative between February 17, 2017 and December 7, 2017.

2. Were you or other EPA political appointees aware of the FOIA requests filed by Definers employees against individual agency employees before the contract was awarded? Were those FOIA requests considered in the identification of Definers as a potential candidate for the Contract, or a factor in ultimately awarding the Contract?
3. Was Definers, America Rising, or any of their agents involved in creating or funding the website ConfirmPruitt.com?
4. Were you, any of your agents, or any current EPA employees involved in generating or reviewing the content of the website ConfirmPruitt.com, or providing or raising funds for the site? Did any representative of Definers, America Rising, or America Rising Squared generate or review content for the website?
5. What work did Definers perform for EPA pursuant to the contract? Please provide a list of all services performed by Definers for EPA during the duration of the contract, including the date, the service provided, time required, the itemized cost, and the name of the Definers employee who performed the work. What was the total amount of taxpayer funds EPA paid Definers during the duration of the contract? Please provide copies of all communications between EPA and any representative of Definers, America Rising, America Rising Squared, and the Need to Know Network during calendar year 2017.
6. On December 10, The New York Times published an article identifying an alarming decrease in enforcement actions brought by the EPA during your administration.¹¹ EPA issued an unusual press release in response, which has since been removed from the Agency website but continues to be cited by conservative media sources. What role did Definers play in the agency's response to the December 10th article? Provide any correspondence between EPA and any representative of Definers, America Rising, America Rising Squared, and the Need to Know Network regarding the December 10th article.
7. What firewalls were in place in the contract with Definers Corp to ensure that Definers firewalled the media monitoring services provided under the Contract from its services that would violate the Publicity or Propaganda Prohibition and Anti-Lobbying provisions?
8. Please provide a copy of the contract between EPA and Definers Corp. including any statement of work.

The Honorable Scott Pruitt
Administrator
Environmental Protection Agency
1200 Pennsylvania Avenue NW
Washington, D.C. 20460

Dear Administrator Pruitt:

We are writing you to express our concerns about the decision by the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) to award a $120,000 no-bid contract for “news analysis” to Definers Public Affairs, as reported this week by *Mother Jones*¹ and the New York Times.² EPA’s contract with Definers risks further politicizing the agency and is another instance of EPA under your tenure becoming captured by the industry it regulates.³ At a minimum, it presents an appearance of impropriety to which you as Administrator should never be a party. For the reasons that follow, you should terminate this contract immediately.

Definers shares an address and staff with America Rising, a political action committee (PAC) that has been described as the “unofficial research arm of the Republican party.”⁴ America Rising has branded itself as an organization on the right founded “for the sole purpose of exposing the truth about Democrats through video tracking, research, and communications.”⁵ The group spends its time attacking Democrats, progressives, and environmentalists and lists Definers as one of its largest vendors.⁶ America Rising also operates the 501(c)(4) organization America Rising Squared, a dark money organization whose contributors are anonymous. The leadership teams of America Rising and Definers share numerous individuals. For example, Definers’ founder, Matt Rhoades, also founded America Rising.⁷ Definers’ president, Joe Pounder, is also the president of America Rising.⁸ Definers’ Senior Vice President, Brian Rogers, is also the executive director of America Rising Squared.⁹ These organizations may have different corporate forms, but we should all be clear that they are merely different parts of the same multi-faceted partisan operation. Any claim they are distinct is a sham.

What's more, America Rising and Definers receive significant funds from interests in the energy sector as well as other industries you regulate as EPA Administrator. While this cabal of Republican opposition research and electioneering organizations can raise much of its money anonymously so that the identities of many of its donors are unknown to the public, press reports about Definers' work and Federal Election Commission (FEC) disclosures from the America Rising PAC make it abundantly clear that companies you regulate are driving much of its work. Definers was hired by fossil fuel interests to work on opposing a local ballot initiative in Colorado that would have placed conditions on oil and gas drilling.¹⁰ America Rising has received sizeable donations from several companies and individuals affiliated with the energy industry, including Hilcorp Energy, L.E. Simmons of SCF Partners, and Jonathon Barrett of Luminus Management LLC. It has also received donations from companies and individuals in other industries regulated by EPA, including Susan Groff of Northwest Excavating, William Kunkler of CC Industries (manufacturing), George Daniels of Daniels Manufacturing, and Jerry Langer of Langer Transport.¹¹

Many of these same corporate interests vocally supported your nomination and confirmation as EPA Administrator. America Rising even ran a campaign in support of your confirmation as EPA Administrator which included ads urging senators to vote for your confirmation and the website, www.ConfirmPruitt.com.¹² At your confirmation hearing, Senator Whitehouse asked you the following question for the record, which has renewed relevance in light of recent events:

Q 138. Please provide any correspondence or details about other communication between you or anyone working on your behalf concerning the establishment or activities of America Rising, America Rising Squared, and Protecting America Now, and any other organizations that are funding efforts to get you confirmed as EPA Administrator.

A. I am not aware of any such correspondence.

Your response was dubious then, and is even more dubious now.

The America Rising-Definers network has been no less active on your behalf following your confirmation than it was before, even putting aside this recent contract. The aforementioned Joe Pounder, president of Definers and America Rising, wears yet another hat in this constellation of interconnected partisan groups: he runs a website called the Need to Know Network (NTK) that has provided favorable coverage of your tenure at EPA.¹³ EPA's official Twitter account has even on several occasions tweeted NTK's coverage of your work at EPA.

¹³ "Scott Pruitt's media echo chamber," Grist, <http://grist.org/article/scott-pruitts-media-echo-chamber/>

As if all this weren't enough, Definers has filed several Freedom of Information Act (FOIA) requests with EPA relating to work EPA was doing under the previous administration with respect to the treatment of wood.¹⁴ It would appear that Definers is working for a corporate client that has business before EPA relating to this matter. America Rising has also filed several FOIA requests with EPA.¹⁵ These requests were filed by the same person who filed the FOIA requests for Definers; this person works at both Definers and America Rising.¹⁶ America Rising's FOIA requests seek to obtain emails from specific EPA employees and/or correspondence between specific EPA employees and various media outlets as well as the staffs of Senators Sheldon Whitehouse, Tom Carper, Elizabeth Warren, and Robert Casey in an apparent effort to uncover "moles" within EPA.

The New York Times has recently documented how EPA enforcement has fallen off significantly during your tenure.¹⁷ Senators Carper and Whitehouse last week raised concerns that you have changed agency policy to give regulated industries an unprecedented seat at the table in negotiations to settle lawsuits where EPA is charged with failing to follow through on its statutory commitments to enforce the Clean Air Act and other environmental laws. Hiring a public relations firm with abundant ties to industries you regulate, which is itself part of a broader network of groups active on behalf of you and fossil fuel interests, suggests that you have handed industry the keys to EPA.

None of this can come as a surprise to you. In 2015, America Rising paid to attend the Republican Attorneys General Association (RAGA) annual summit at which you spoke.¹⁸ You led RAGA for two years, where you worked through RAGA to attack EPA during the Obama administration.

Your representatives have claimed that EPA's contract with Definers is for "media monitoring/newsclip compilation"¹⁹ and that it was retained "at a rate that is $87,000 cheaper than our previous vendor and they are providing no other services."²⁰ All of the above information about Definers, its activities, clients, and role within a much larger ecosystem of partisan, industry-funded operations research and electioneering groups casts significant doubt on these statements.

In light of the above and in order to shed light on EPA's decision to award this contract, we are asking that you provide the following documents and responses by Thursday, December 21.

WASHINGTON, DC 20510

June 19, 2018

Administrator Scott Pruitt
U.S. Environmental Protection Agency
1200 Pennsylvania Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20460

Dear Administrator Pruitt:

We again write to you regarding the Environmental Protection Agency's decision to award a no-bid contract to Definers, a consulting firm that shares leadership staff, and office space with America Rising, a political action committee (PAC) which was active in supporting your confirmation as Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) Administrator. This contract is deeply concerning because it suggests a quid pro quo and would seem to violate the law, as outlined below.

On December 19, 2017, we first wrote to you inquiring about this contract with Definers for media clipping services. On April 27, 2018, EPA responded and your response included documents related to the now-cancelled Definers no-bid contract. On May 11, 2018, EPA staff attempted to answer questions from our staff in a phone call regarding the documents provided in EPA's April 27 response. Despite these disclosures and discussions, key facts about this how this contract was awarded remain unknown.

I. How was Definers identified as the contractor of choice?

EPA provided one email chain related to the Definers contract; the first of these emails is dated November 2, 2017. While parts of these emails have been redacted, the first email in this chain mentions a "JOFOC" or Justification for Other than Full and Open Competition, indicating that EPA had already chosen a contractor. A November 13, 2017 email in the chain identifies Definers as the contractor.

Government contracts are not awarded without prior discussion and thorough deliberation, so we find it hard to believe that the first email mention of Definers at EPA occurred after Definers had already been chosen. "Definers" is a rarely used word, so it should be straightforward for your staff to obtain all emails in which Definers the company is mentioned.

During our May 11, 2018 phone call with EPA career staff, we were told that EPA's contract with Bulletin Intelligence was cancelled in early 2017 at the direction of President Trump's EPA beachhead team because it "wasn't meeting their needs." EPA career staff further advised us that your public affairs team first "made [them] aware" of Definers and its media clipping services. Career staff stated they were be unable to recall who on your team told them about Definers and what specific instructions they were given.

Documents provided (and not provided) by EPA and statements by career staff seem to indicate that the decision to hire Definers was driven by political appointees. Given the fact that Definers shares executives and leadership with America Rising, which bankrolled a campaign supporting your confirmation as EPA Administrator, a decision to steer a contract outside the typical contracting process to Definers would seem to violate Subpart 3.101-1 of the Federal Acquisition Regulation (“The general rule is to avoid strictly any conflict of interest or even the appearance of a conflict of interest in Government-contractor relationships”) and Title 5 of the Code of Federal Regulations Section 2635.101(b)(8) (“Employees shall act impartially and not give preferential treatment to any private organization or individual”).

II. Does Definers offer unique services that would justify EPA’s decision to forego competitive bidding for this contract?

In our December 19 letter, we asked you to explain what “provision of the Federal Acquisition Regulation (FAR) authorized a no-bid contract for the type of services EPA procured from Definers.” In EPA’s April 27 response, Liz Bowman, your former Associate Administrator for the Office of Public Affairs, attempted to justify the no-bid nature of the Definers contract by writing that “Definers offers unique services” and “[EPA] was not aware of any other company that provided or had available this feature of real-time coverage for specific events.”

Among the documents provided with EPA’s April 27 response is a JOFOC dated November 29, 2017 (Attachment II). In this document, EPA lists the following “unique qualifications” that “require” the use of the only one responsible source exception to competitive bidding practices:

- Proprietary advanced search functions
- Standalone media clip database including perpetual retention so that information is always available regardless of email retention policies or other limitations of email platforms
- Ability to pre-load a customized Console with the issues, public figures, and news data relevant to customers, populated in real time
- Specially trained and experienced researchers to provide relevant and actionable analysis
- Digital and human analytics coverage throughout the day
- Media tags that are tailored to the customer’s areas of interests, which allow for quick sorting and tracking of customized data streams
- Delivered through a proprietary web interface, which allows for email distribution as well.

Additionally, the JOFOC states that “[l]eading providers Cision [...], Bulletin Intelligence [...], and Critical Mention [...] do not provide the combined services sought by EPA’s Office of Public Affairs.” During the May 11 call between our staffs, EPA career staff indicated they conducted a search to see if other companies offered media clipping services similar to Definers’ services, particularly its claimed ability to provide clips in “near live-time,” but determined they did not.

Our staff subsequently spoke with a representative from Cision, who explained that Cision gives clients the option of receiving email alerts every hour containing the latest stories of interest. Cision’s clients may also log into their “my coverage” portal at any time to see the latest stories of interest; the portal is updated in close to real time. Cision’s representative confirmed that it offers all of the functionalities listed in the JOFOC as “unique” to Definers.

Another company allegedly researched by EPA staff, Bulletin Intelligence, also appears to offer “near live-time” capabilities. According to its website, its dashboard provides links to “24/7 breaking news” of interest to its clients.¹ Bulletin Intelligence’s description of its services also seems to match most of the functionalities listed in the JOFOC as “unique” to Definers.

A third company allegedly researched by EPA staff, Critical Mention, claims that its clients can see coverage “one minute after it appears – more than 8 times faster than the industry standard” on an “all-in-one platform” that offers “real-time media monitoring.”² Its description of its services also seems to match most of the functionalities listed in the JOFOC as “unique” to Definers.

Moreover, a simple internet search identified several other similar companies that offer the services that the JOFOC claimed to be “unique” to Definers. These companies include Metro Monitor (“[r]eceive reports of your media coverage as it happens”³) and Universal Information Services (“[r]eceive scheduled or near real-time e-mail notifications when your stories air”⁴).

The JOFOC and the email chain suggest that EPA staff did little independent vetting of this contract, and instead relied upon Definers’ own representations about its services. The JOFOC description of Definer’s “unique qualifications” appears to have been copied almost verbatim from Definers’ promotional materials. It is replete with words such as “proprietary” and “customers” that one would not expect to see in a description written by EPA staff. Under the section of the JOFOC titled “[o]ther facts supporting the use of other than full and open competition,” EPA staff wrote:

“Definers Corp. states that no other service gives their clients the high level and comprehensive search functions that it offers through its customized Console. Clients have the ability to tailor their tags and tailor who from their teams sees those tags. The storage and search functions of the Console are something no other clip service provides because they do not have the Definers proprietary Console.”

EPA staff also relied on Definers’ representations with respect to the reasonableness of the services’ cost. The JOFOC states that “the C[ontracting] O[fficer] has determined the cost to be fair and reasonable based on information received from the contractor” (emphasis added). An email dated November 13, 2017 further states that staff are “still waiting for a bit of information from Definers to complete the JOFOC” (emphasis added).

The availability of similar services from multiple companies and the acceptance at face value by EPA contracting staff of representations made by Definers in order to complete the JOFOC lead us to believe that EPA’s proffered reasons for the no-bid contract with Definers were pretextual.

As such, we renew our request for answers to questions 1, 3, 4, 7, 9, and 10 from our December 19, 2017 letter as they have yet to be fully answered. While we appreciate EPA’s willingness to have staff speak directly, we respectfully request that all EPA staff with full knowledge of the genesis of the Definers contract be made available to speak with our offices. We also renew our various requests for responsive documents. If there are no additional documents responsive to our original

Based upon the documents already provided and our May 11, 2018 discussion with career staff, we also request responses to the following additional questions:

1. Who on your team made career staff "aware" of Definers?
2. What was said to career staff in relation to Definers? Were they directed to hire Definers? If so, by whom?
3. Who made the decision to hire Definers under a no-bid contract? Please provide copies of any and all intra-agency communications relating to the decision not to use competitive bidding procedures for this contract.
4. Please explain how it is possible that the only emails we have been provided were written after Definers had already been chosen for the contract. Do no other emails mentioning Definers exist? If so, why were initial intra-agency discussions of this contract not memorialized in writing? Did anyone instruct career staff not to email about Definers? If other emails do exist, why have we not been provided them?
5. If it is your position that no one on your team instructed career staff to hire Definers, then what explains how the justification they provided for avoiding competitive bidding procedures does not appear to have any foundation in fact?

You recently gave an interview in which you stated that you "care so much about taxpayer money."⁵ EPA's decision to award a no-bid contract to a politically connected firm suggests precisely the opposite, and your slow and incomplete response to our inquiries in this matter further suggests that you continue to waste taxpayer money and are not being ethically compliant based on your numerous questionable agency expenditures. So that we may get to the bottom of this matter, we request that you respond by June 29, 2018 to our renewed questions on this matter. Statement of Work
Media Support Contract
U.S. Environmental Protection Agency

Background and Purpose:

EPA's Office of Public Affairs (OPA) is responsible for working with media to provide the public with timely, coherent information on environmental issues, and EPA actions and policies. Whether providing the media with press announcements; responding to media inquiries; or reacting to published stories, OPA works to achieve articles that accurately represent EPA's perspective. In order to accomplish this goal, OPA must constantly monitor media coverage and respond to inaccurate or incomplete stories. OPA may choose a number of methods to address these stories, including contacting reporters and editors to request corrections. OPA's ability to successfully address inaccurate or incomplete stories before the stories influence other reporters or are widely read is largely dependent on its ability to identify those stories shortly after publication, and OPA requires contractor support in order to do so.

Scope of Work

EPA requires four basic services:

- delivery, via email and in near-real-time, of media stories involving relevant events, announcements and issues, with trend analysis included;
- delivery, via email, of a once-daily (Monday through Friday) compendium of news coverage of EPA and environmental issues, including a trend analysis;
- delivery, via email and in near-real-time, of media stories on high-priority issues and/or media outlets as determined through ongoing discussions between OPA and the vendor
- delivery, via searchable database, of all past media stories gathered under the other assigned tasks

The selected vendor shall be responsible for obtaining the necessary licenses (via Factiva, Lexis Nexis or similar service) to provide this service to OPA.

Accompanying these deliverables, selected vendor shall provide exceptional customer service, including 24/7 access by EPA to contractor's account managers, analysts, and senior managers, to permit last-minute changes to topics, deadlines, and specific guidance from OPA to the contractor regarding stories to be included and the extent of coverage desired.

Deliverables shall:

- include articles and broadcasts from major U.S. newspapers, national television and cable news, news weeklies, relevant magazines and journals, blogs, specialty press, etc.;

- reflect understanding of EPA's mission and interests;
- characterize, when requested, the coverage such that EPA officials can quickly get a sense of how widely various story elements were run and what the general tone is; and
- provide links within the coverage to the original full-text versions and to streaming video of important television as originally broadcast.

Deliverables:

The contractor shall deliver comprehensive, near live-time media coverage for high-priority events, announcements or issues. Delivery is to be made in individual emails which also include the name of the media outlet, the full text of the story, a link to the original source, and a brief (1-2 sentences) characterization of the tone of the story, all in an easily-readable, Section 508-compliant format. This "war room" type coverage will include rapid delivery of media stories. Delivery will be to a select list of approximately 30 OPA staff, as provided by OPA. Delivery shall be throughout the day as news stories are published and within 30 minutes of the time of publication. This deliverable shall be available seven days per week, from 8 AM to 11 PM Eastern Time, excluding holidays as defined in this statement of work. Note that, while emails shall typically be delivered with one story per email, multiple entries may be combined in a single email at the contractor's discretion. In either case, however, the email shall be sent within 30 minutes of all articles' publication.

Task 2 – Deliver, via E-Mail, Daily Compiled News Coverage of EPA and Environmental Issues, Including Trend Analysis

The compendia shall include all Task 1 and Task 3 materials. The contractor will not be required to deliver any e-mails for this task on Saturdays, Sundays or observed holidays as defined in this statement of work. However, the first Monday and/or post-holiday e-mail delivery under this task shall also include content published since the preceding e-mail delivery on Friday or the day before the holiday, and shall include relevant content from all weekend and/or observed holiday days.

- average favorability – percent favorable, neutral, and unfavorable;
- leading story focus;
- leading messages;
- leading spokespeople on key messages;
- leading media type on key messages; and
- trends in coverage across different media type.

The above represents OPA's best idea of the trend analysis, but specifics will be worked out with the contractor after contract award.

These compendia, including trend analysis, will go to a listserv, maintained by the contractor, of approximately 600 people. Formatting of the compendia is at the discretion of the contractor, but they must be easy to read with a reasonable type and font size, and must be Section 508 compliant.

Evaluation Factors

The Government will award the Purchase Order based upon "Best Value" methodology using the following evaluation factors. For this requirement, all evaluation factors other than price, when combined, are significantly more important than price. The evaluation criteria, which are in descending order of importance, are as follows:

Factor 1 – Technical Approach: Offers will be evaluated on the extent to which they clearly describe an effective technical approach for accomplishing the tasks and requirements of the SOW, ensuring both quality of service and product and cost efficiencies. The offeror shall clearly describe the purpose, scope, and content of the proposed deliverables that will be produced in implementing the SOW. Additionally, offerors shall include a clear plan for the successful management of the contract. Finally, offerors shall include a comprehensive list of the publications that will be utilized in the performance of the work.

As part of the technical quote, OPA requests a sample of Tasks 1 and 2 (also excluded from the technical approach page limit). Task 1 shall be completed on the day before quotes are due. Task 2 shall be completed on the day quotes are due, no later than 8:00 AM. In addition, OPA requests to see a live sample of the type of database required under Task 4. A link and any necessary login information should be provided with the quote.

Factor 2 – Past Performance: Offers will be evaluated on the quality of their past performance of projects of similar scope and size, complexity, and results to the requirements of this SOW. Offerors shall describe three (3) projects performed in the last five (5) years. For each reference, the offeror shall describe the scope and dollar value of the project, the offeror's approach to performing the work, the results of the project, the relevance of the work to the requirements of this RFQ, and the impact of the project on the customer's organization. The description shall include client references and contact information for each experience provided. References may be called to verify information.

Factor 3 – Staffing Approach: Offers will be evaluated on the quality, suitability, and probability of success of their proposed staffing plans. Offerors shall describe their staffing approach in the form of a staffing plan. The staffing plan shall include resumes for the personnel proposed for the purchase order. The plan shall describe the role and level of involvement of each proposed team member in implementing the SOW tasks. The plan shall describe the offeror's proposed procedure for replacing personnel when team vacancies occur. If key personnel are proposed, the plan shall identify the actual duration of their proposed assignment(s).

Factor 4 – Price - Offerors will be evaluated on the fairness and reasonableness of their proposed price, which will be compared against the proposed technical solution and the Government independent cost estimate.

The technical proposal will be reviewed, evaluated, and rated in accordance with the above 3 technical evaluation factors according to the following:

US Environmental Protection Agency ratings focus on the ability of the offeror to accomplish the goals outlined in the SOW as well as strengths and weaknesses demonstrated in the offeror's technical plan. Ratings will be assigned to each technical quote by the reviewer(s) based on the criteria above. In the case of more than one reviewer, the ratings will be assigned by consensus.

Adjectival Rating	Description
Exceptional	Greatly exceeds all minimum requirements of the criteria; has a high probability of success; contains no weaknesses or deficiencies.

Good	Exceeds all the minimum requirements of the criteria; has an above average probability of success; contains no significant weaknesses and only minor, correctable weaknesses exist.
Acceptable	Meets all the minimum requirements of the criteria; has an average probability of success; no significant weaknesses and any deficiencies can be readily corrected.
Marginal	Fails to meet one or more of the minimum requirements of the criteria; low probability of success; major weaknesses and/or significant number of deficiencies exist.
Unacceptable	Fails to meet any of the minimum requirements of the criteria; proposal needs major revisions; very low probability of success.

Price will not receive an adjectival rating; rather it will be used to determine a successful quote.

Independent Government Cost Estimate

EPA estimates that the cost for this service will be $10,000 per month for a total of $120,000 for the one-year life of the contract. Specifically:

$7,500 per month for database x 12 months = $90,000 / year

$2,500 per month for clip service x 12 months = $30,000 / year

Ms. Dews,

Hope you are well. My name is Ben Kessler, I'm the Head of Government Solutions at the Media Intelligence firm, Meltwater.

I was notified of the subject-referenced Sole Source Notice to award a contract to Definers Corp and wanted to reach out.

I am trying to find more information on FBO and/or FedConnect related to the requirements and Sole Source Justification but cannot find anything.

Meltwater is a Media Intelligence and News Analysis company, so we believe we may be able to support this requirement as an alternative source and that the Government should therefore compete this requirement.

That said, I do not have enough information from what was made publically available via FBO and/or FedConnect.

Could you kindly send me over the following:

- SOW / PWS that is being supported by this contract
- Sole Source Justification
- Intended Contract Award Amount
- Any other information pertinent towards what you need to see from Meltwater should we choose to prove ourselves as a Potential Source for this requirement

Thanks for your prompt response to this matter, and please do not hesitate to call me with any questions!

Ben

Copyright Holder Status

TechMIS, through its relationships with numerous news gathering tools, is a copyright holder of a News Gathering Service. These relationships extend to the TechMIS team and provide the legal authority to collect and aggregate content on behalf of the EPA and its constituents.

Technical Capabilities

TechMIS has extensive expert-level knowledge of the federal government and its missions. We understand that the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) officials, employees and programs must be fully informed about important breaking and ongoing news and broadcast coverage from local, state and national daily newspapers, newspaper websites, television, radio, cable news, wire services, newsweeklies, relevant magazines and journals, internet sites, specialty trade press, legal journals, and high quality social media outlets (including blogs and Twitter). TechMIS has the capability to scan these sources across local, state, regional, national and international venues.

By virtue of our extensive experience providing news support to U.S. government customers, TechMIS has acquired unique insight and is highly adept in identifying news that Agency officials themselves would have identified as important and relevant to the mission of the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA).

In support of our ICE, HUD, DOL and GSA News Briefing contracts, TechMIS has pioneered formatting and delivery methods which have enabled our Briefing products to be accessed on handheld devices such as iPhone, iPad, Kindle, e-Readers, Android and Blackberry.

- We have proven experience, a large seasoned editorial staff, and a robust supporting infrastructure to ensure comprehensive and on-time news delivery.
- Our prepared news documents are distinctly different from the low quality, off-target, automated clipping services that are prevalent in the industry.
- Our highly-refined and thoughtfully constructed products have a logical flow and are formatted for wide distribution. Our reports will make an immediate and positive impact across the EPA and its constituents.

From: Joe Pounder, President, Definers Public Affairs
Julia Cotrone, Special Assistant, Definers Public Affairs
Will Schenkel, VP, Definers Public Affairs
Date: December 7th, 2017
Subject: EPA Media Support Proposal

1) Overall Scope:

Definers Public Affairs can provide the EPA's Office of Public Affairs (OPA) with comprehensive media monitoring services and analysis focused on alerting the team to developing news stories, building compendiums twice a day on issues you have identified. With analysts on the ground in Washington D.C. and the Bay Area, Definers Public Affairs is able to provide comprehensive media monitoring of coherent information on environmental issues, and EPA actions and policies around the clock.

2) Media Monitoring Scope:

Definers Public Affairs can provide comprehensive war room-style media monitoring focused on stories about Administrator Pruitt and the Environmental Protection Agency. This monitoring would include articles and broadcasts from major U.S. newspapers, national television and cable news, news weeklies, relevant magazines and journals, blogs, specialty press, etc. Stories would be compiled into a daily matrix about Administrator Pruitt (example below). While not alerting stories throughout the day with a campaign-level intensity, Definers will alert major stories as they develop. Examples of a Print Alert and TV Alert are enclosed.

The monitoring will focus on stories about Administrator Pruitt and the EPA outlined in the proposal section below. The ultimate goal of the monitoring is to provide your team with a greater understanding of the Administrator's and Agency's coverage throughout the day.

To achieve this Definers will provide the EPA 4 basic services:

- 2A) delivery, via email, of a twice-daily (Monday through Friday) compendium of news coverage of EPA and environmental issues, including a trend analysis
- 2B) delivery, via email and in near-real-time, of media stories involving events, announcements and issues directly relevant to the EPA, with trend analysis included;
- 2C) delivery, via email and in near-real-time, of media stories on high-priority issues and/or media outlets as determined through ongoing discussions between OPA and the vendor.
- 2D) delivery, via searchable database, of stories gathered under the other assigned tasks as of contract start date.

3) Proposal:

Definers Public Affairs can provide comprehensive war room-style media monitoring focused on alerting your team to news stories as they break and develop from English-language sources.

3A) This monitoring would include all print and online sources, national and local TV, and key influencers on social media relating to:

- Administrator
- Brownfields/Superfund/Other cleanups
- Environmental Justice
- Environmental activists
- EPA
- International environmental agreements and disputes
- Toxics/TSCA
- Tribal environmental issues

The following subjects will also be monitored & alerted when directly mentioning or relevant the Administrator or the EPA:

- Budget
- Climate Change
- Emergency Response
- Energy
- Enforcement
- Grants
- Hazardous waste
- Pesticides
- Research and Development
- Rules/Regulations/Policy
- Trash/recycling/composting/solid waste

3B) The monitoring program for the subjects outlined above would incorporate two tracks:

- i. On a daily basis, stories would be compiled into morning and evening matrices of issues identified by your team. The matrix will include a brief summary and analysis as to the coverage. Throughout the day, Definers will alert major stories that our analysts deem pertinent to your strategic objectives, and follow them as they develop, circulate, and gain traction.
- ii. In a breaking news situation, Definers media analysts will work hand-in-hand with your team to monitor for news stories and how they spread throughout the media. Our analysts will provide a quick analysis when needed that identifies what environmental companies are saying, whether stories are positive/negative, and whether or not they incorporate your company's perspective. This quick analysis will help your team more effectively respond to developing news.

3C) Through Definers Console-based war room system the EPA team can be automatically notified via e-mail of news alerts and they can also login and go through the alerts in one convenient location. The Console includes a robust search function that will enable your team to quickly find and filter the stories alerted by Definers.

The EPA will have the ability to use the Definers Console for:

- Proprietary advanced search functions within the clips
- Standalone media clip database including perpetual retention so that information is always available regardless of email retention policies or other limitations of email platforms
- Specially trained and experienced researchers to provide relevant and actionable analysis
- Digital and human analytics coverage throughout the day
- Media tags that are tailored to your company's areas of interests, which allow for quick sorting and tracking of your customized data streams.
- Delivered through our proprietary web interface which allows for email distribution as well.

3D) In order to achieve these task Definers will obtain/maintain subscriptions or licenses for:

- Nexis Lexis
- TV Eyes
- SnapStream

Exclusive: Trump EPA Transition Chief Laments Slow Progress In Killing Green Rules

Reuters

By Valerie Volcovici

May 22, 2017

<https://www.reuters.com/article/us-usa-trump-ebell-exclusive-idUSKBN18I196>

The man who led President Donald Trump's transition team for the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency, Myron Ebell, told a conservative conference last month that the new administration is moving too slowly to unravel climate change regulations.

In closed-door remarks to members of the conservative Jefferson Institute in Virginia on April 18, a recording of which was obtained by Reuters, Ebell said Trump's administration had made a series of missteps, including delays in appointing key EPA officials, that could hamper efforts to cut red tape for industry.

"This is an impending disaster for the Trump administration," Ebell, a prominent climate change doubter, said in the recording provided to the Center for Media and Democracy and shared with Reuters.

Ebell was chosen by Trump's campaign to lead the EPA's transition until the Jan. 20 inauguration, a choice that had reinforced expectations Trump would follow through on promises to rescind Obama-era green rules and pull the United States out of a global pact to fight climate change.

Ebell had been seen as a candidate for the EPA administrator job, a post that ultimately went to former Oklahoma Attorney General Scott Pruitt.

Ebell no longer works at the agency but remains influential within a faction of the U.S. conservative movement with ties to the Trump administration. His criticism reflects a broader disappointment by some conservatives about Pruitt's focus and commitment to scrapping even more complex Obama-era regulations.

Since taking office, Trump and Pruitt have moved to unwind environmental regulations, including former President Barack Obama's Clean Power Plan to reduce carbon emissions from electricity generators.

But his administration has frustrated some conservatives by entertaining the idea of remaining in the Paris Climate Agreement, and hesitating to tackle the Obama-era "endangerment finding" that concludes carbon dioxide is a public health threat and underlies many U.S. regulations governing emissions. Lawyers have said challenging that scientific finding could be time consuming and legally complex.

Pruitt has said he does not want the United States to remain in the Paris agreement but he has not yet decided to tackle the endangerment finding. At least three conservative groups have filed petitions asking the EPA to overturn the finding.

"Paris and the endangerment finding are the two big outstanding issues. It's the first wave of things that are necessary to turn this country around, particularly in the heartland states," Ebell said at the conference.

Ebell cited the slow pace of key EPA appointments, including deputy administrator and various assistant administrators, a lack of experienced personnel at the White House, deep ideological divisions between the president's close advisers, and an "imperfect choice" of EPA administrator, as the main reasons Trump was not acting more aggressively on climate rules.

He said Trump strategists should have allowed his transition team to roll out the full de-regulatory agenda before Trump took office, instead of delaying. "The new president doesn't have long before inertia sets in," he said.

He also found fault in Trump's choice of Pruitt to run the EPA, saying the former state attorney is a "clever lawyer" but his "political ambition" may distract him from taking-on time-consuming efforts like challenging the endangerment finding.

A spokesman for Pruitt responded to Ebell's assertions, saying Pruitt had been implementing Trump's executive orders and had spearheaded "about two dozen regulatory reform actions" since taking up his position.

Ebell also faulted Trump for choosing advisers with broadly different political perspectives and backgrounds - something he said was triggering paralyzing debate, instead of action.

"He's got people on different sides and they are all fighting over who gets these jobs and nobody has the clout except the president to say, 'Hey fix this, let's get this done,'" Ebell said.

In a statement given to Reuters on Saturday, Ebell said he is still concerned about the White House log-jam in nominating people for key EPA posts and the delay in making the Paris decision.

But he said he supports Pruitt as an administrator and is encouraged by his recent actions.

"Pruitt was an excellent choice to head the EPA, and minor disagreements aside, his recent actions have made me even more confident that he will be an outstanding administrator," he said.

A White House official did not respond to a request for comment.

Administrator Pruitt Discusses Plans And Leadership For The Environmental Protection Agency

Steve: Good morning to you.

Administrator Pruitt: Good morning. Good to be back with you.

Steve: the press made President Obama out to be the environmental savior. And yet, when you look at the number of toxic dumps left on your plate, it's a big number.

Administrator Pruitt: Absolutely. in fact, Ainsley, you said these fights across the country have some of the uranium and lead, posing great risk to the citizens in those areas. And examples where the E.P.A. didn't take any steps at all. We have a site outside of St. Louis called Westlake that's taken the E.P.A. 27 years just to make a decision. Not clean it up, but to make a decision on what should be done to clean it up.

Steve: That crosses both Democrat and Republican administrations.

Administrator Pruitt: Absolutely, and I think when you look at the environmental left they look at the past administration as an environmental savior. When you look at areas of contaminant in this country that don't meet the air quality standards, almost 40% of the country that qualify there. 120 million people. We had Gold King in Colorado. Flint in Michigan with water. The super fund sites across the country. the area that they focused on, the C02 reductions they struck out twice on as far as regulations. The supreme court struck them down twice.

Ainsley: What does this mean for the folks that are watching this? Does this mean can you get cancer if you are exposed to all of this?

Administrator Pruitt: Possibly, yes. And that's why it's so important to focus the core of the mission on those areas. This president is a doer, an action oriented leader. the past administration talked a lot. this administration is actually taking steps to do things to clean up the environment. We're focusing on those areas you mentioned.

Brian: super fund sites that need to be cleaned up. What's your first target?

Administrator Pruitt: We are very focused on Westlake. I was in East Chicago about three weeks ago. a site that has lead as well.

Brian: do you know how to do it?

Administrator Pruitt: We have a plan in place that we're going to announce very soon on Westlake. So it's very important to make those citizens know we are going to take steps to clean up and clean it up quickly.

Ainsley: Mr. Pruitt, we are talking about memos and what's happening in the white house. this is what the American public really needs to be focused on

Steve: our personal safety.

Ainsley: protecting our kids from cancer.

Administrator Pruitt: They want leadership. and this president is providing leadership it in so many areas, and it gets lost in Washington, D.C. malaise in all these areas.

Steve: provide leadership to do what with the environment.”

Administrator Pruitt: Clean up these sites. set a goal and say 1322 sites unacceptable. 27 years to make a decision is unacceptable. Let’s get St. Louis cleaned up.

Steve: how much is it going to cost?

Administrator Pruitt: The great thing about this is we have private funding. There are people out there responsible for these sites to clean up. There is money out there to do so. it's not a matter of money. it's a matter of leadership and attitude and management. we need to do it much better.

brian: when are you going to make a decision on leaving and staying in paris, the paris agreement.

Administrator Pruitt: I think when the president gets back from the G7. I'm actually attending the G7 in early June as well and there will be a decision on Paris. Very important we make decisions there soon.

Brian: it will be one of the big top topics.

Brian: Great to see you.

Subject: EPA Media Support Proposal

1) Overall Scope:

Definers Public Affairs can provide the EPA's Office of Public Affairs (OPA) with comprehensive media monitoring services and analysis focused on alerting the team to developing news stories, building compendiums twice a day on issues you have identified. With analysts on the ground in Washington D.C. and the Bay Area, Definers Public Affairs is able to provide comprehensive media monitoring of coherent information on environmental issues, and EPA actions and policies around the clock.

2) Media Monitoring Scope:

Definers Public Affairs can provide comprehensive war room-style media monitoring focused on stories about Administrator Pruitt and the Environmental Protection Agency. This monitoring would include articles and broadcasts from major U.S. newspapers, national television and cable news, news weeklies, relevant magazines and journals, blogs, specialty press, etc. Stories would be compiled into a daily matrix about Administrator Pruitt (example below). While not alerting stories throughout the day with a campaign-level intensity, Definers will alert major stories as they develop. Examples of a Print Alert and TV Alert are enclosed.

The monitoring will focus on stories about Administrator Pruitt and the EPA outlined in the proposal section below. The ultimate goal of the monitoring is to provide your team with a greater understanding of the Administrator's and Agency's coverage throughout the day.

To achieve this Definers will provide the EPA 4 basic services:

- 2A) delivery, via email, of a twice-daily (Monday through Friday) compendium of news coverage of EPA and environmental issues, including a trend analysis
- 2B) delivery, via email and in near-real-time, of media stories involving events, announcements and issues directly relevant to the EPA, with trend analysis included;
- 2C) delivery, via email and in near-real-time, of media stories on high-priority issues and/or media outlets as determined through ongoing discussions between OPA and the vendor.
- 2D) delivery, via searchable database, of stories gathered under the other assigned tasks as of contract start date.

3) Proposal:

Definers Public Affairs can provide comprehensive war room-style media monitoring focused on alerting your team to news stories as they break and develop from English-language sources.

3A) This monitoring would include all print and online sources, national and local TV, and key influencers on social media relating to:

- Administrator
- Brownfields/Superfund/Other cleanups
- Environmental Justice
- Environmental activists
- EPA
- International environmental agreements and disputes
- Toxics/TSCA
- Tribal environmental issues

The following subjects will also be monitored & alerted when directly mentioning or relevant the Administrator or the EPA:

- Budget
- Climate Change
- Emergency Response
- Energy
- Enforcement
- Grants
- Hazardous waste
- Pesticides
- Research and Development
- Rules/Regulations/Policy
- Trash/recycling/composting/solid waste

3B) The monitoring program for the subjects outlined above would incorporate two tracks:

- i. On a daily basis, stories would be compiled into morning and evening matrices of issues identified by your team. The matrix will include a brief summary and analysis as to the coverage. Throughout the day, Definers will alert major stories that our analysts deem pertinent to your strategic objectives, and follow them as they develop, circulate, and gain traction.
- ii. In a breaking news situation, Definers media analysts will work hand-in-hand with your team to monitor for news stories and how they spread throughout the media. Our analysts will provide a quick analysis when needed that identifies what environmental companies are saying, whether stories are positive/negative, and whether or not they incorporate your company's perspective. This quick analysis will help your team more effectively respond to developing news.

3C) Through Definers Console-based war room system the EPA team can be automatically notified via e-mail of news alerts and they can also login and go through the alerts in one convenient location. The Console includes a robust search function that will enable your team to quickly find and filter the stories alerted by Definers.

The EPA will have the ability to use the Definers Console for:

Exclusive: Trump EPA Transition Chief Laments Slow Progress In Killing Green Rules

The man who led President Donald Trump's transition team for the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency, Myron Ebell, told a conservative conference last month that the new administration is moving too slowly to unravel climate change regulations.

In closed-door remarks to members of the conservative Jefferson Institute in Virginia on April 18, a recording of which was obtained by Reuters, Ebell said Trump's administration had made a series of missteps, including delays in appointing key EPA officials, that could hamper efforts to cut red tape for industry.

"This is an impending disaster for the Trump administration," Ebell, a prominent climate change doubter, said in the recording provided to the Center for Media and Democracy and shared with Reuters.

Ebell was chosen by Trump's campaign to lead the EPA's transition until the Jan. 20 inauguration, a choice that had reinforced expectations Trump would follow through on promises to rescind Obama-era green rules and pull the United States out of a global pact to fight climate change.

Ebell had been seen as a candidate for the EPA administrator job, a post that ultimately went to former Oklahoma Attorney General Scott Pruitt.

Ebell no longer works at the agency but remains influential within a faction of the U.S. conservative movement with ties to the Trump administration. His criticism reflects a broader disappointment by some conservatives about Pruitt's focus and commitment to scrapping even more complex Obama-era regulations.

Since taking office, Trump and Pruitt have moved to unwind environmental regulations, including former President Barack Obama's Clean Power Plan to reduce carbon emissions from electricity generators.

He also found fault in Trump's choice of Pruitt to run the EPA, saying the former state attorney is a "clever lawyer" but his "political ambition" may distract him from taking-on time-consuming efforts like challenging the endangerment finding.

A spokesman for Pruitt responded to Ebell's assertions, saying Pruitt had been implementing Trump's executive orders and had spearheaded "about two dozen regulatory reform actions" since taking up his position.

3B) The monitoring program for the subjects outlined above would incorporate two tracks:

- On a daily basis, stories would be compiled into morning and evening matrices of issues identified by your team. The matrix will include a brief summary and analysis as to the coverage. Throughout the day, Definers will alert major stories that our analysts deem pertinent to your strategic objectives, and follow them as they develop, circulate, and gain traction. Definers will also provide a weekly analysis that comprises the top coverage, response from environmentalists, and analysis of trends from the past week, as well as the week ahead.
- In a breaking news situation, Definers media analysts will work hand-in-hand with your team to monitor for news stories and how they spread throughout the media. Our analysts will provide a quick analysis when needed that identifies what environmental companies are saying, whether stories are positive/negative, and whether or not they incorporate your company's perspective. This quick analysis will help your team more effectively respond to developing news.

3C) Through Definers Console-based war room system the EPA team can be automatically notified via e-mail of news alerts and they can also login and go through the alerts in one convenient location. The Console includes a robust search function that will enable your team to quickly find and filter the stories alerted by Definers.

The EPA will have the ability to use the Definers Console for:

- Proprietary advanced search functions within the clips
- Standalone media clip database including perpetual retention so that information is always available regardless of email retention policies or other limitations of email platforms
- Ability to pre-load your customized Console with the issues, public figures, and news data relevant to you populated in real time
- Specially trained and experienced researchers to provide relevant and actionable analysis
- Digital and human analytics coverage throughout the day
- Media tags that are tailored to your company's areas of interests, which allow for quick sorting and tracking of your customized data streams.
- Delivered through our proprietary web interface which allows for email distribution as well.

3D) In order to achieve these task Definers will obtain/maintain subscriptions or licenses for:

3E) Once contracted EPA will have 24/7 access to Definers account managers, analysts, and senior managers, to permit last-minute changes to topics, deadlines, and specific guidance from OPA to the contractor regarding stories to be included and the extent of coverage desired.

4) Definers Estimated Cost:

To accomplish your objectives, we anticipate a cost of $240,000 over 12 months.

Monthly Cost Breakdown:

$12,500 = 24/7 access to custom built and proprietary Definers Console (outlined in section 3C)

$5,000 = Scope of clips package as defined by agency (outlined in section 3A, 3B and 3D)

Exclusive: Trump EPA Transition Chief Laments Slow Progress In Killing Green Rules

Reuters

By Valerie Volcovici

May 22, 2017

<https://www.reuters.com/article/us-usa-trump-ebell-exclusive-idUSKBN18I196>

The man who led President Donald Trump's transition team for the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency, Myron Ebell, told a conservative conference last month that the new administration is moving too slowly to unravel climate change regulations.

In closed-door remarks to members of the conservative Jefferson Institute in Virginia on April 18, a recording of which was obtained by Reuters, Ebell said Trump's administration had made a series of missteps, including delays in appointing key EPA officials, that could hamper efforts to cut red tape for industry.

"This is an impending disaster for the Trump administration," Ebell, a prominent climate change doubter, said in the recording provided to the Center for Media and Democracy and shared with Reuters.

Ebell was chosen by Trump's campaign to lead the EPA's transition until the Jan. 20 inauguration, a choice that had reinforced expectations Trump would follow through on promises to rescind Obama-era green rules and pull the United States out of a global pact to fight climate change.

Ebell had been seen as a candidate for the EPA administrator job, a post that ultimately went to former Oklahoma Attorney General Scott Pruitt.

Ebell no longer works at the agency but remains influential within a faction of the U.S. conservative movement with ties to the Trump administration. His criticism reflects a broader disappointment by some conservatives about Pruitt's focus and commitment to scrapping even more complex Obama-era regulations.

Since taking office, Trump and Pruitt have moved to unwind environmental regulations, including former President Barack Obama's Clean Power Plan to reduce carbon emissions from electricity generators.

But his administration has frustrated some conservatives by entertaining the idea of remaining in the Paris Climate Agreement, and hesitating to tackle the Obama-era "endangerment finding" that concludes carbon dioxide is a public health threat and underlies many U.S. regulations governing emissions. Lawyers have said challenging that scientific finding could be time consuming and legally complex.

Pruitt has said he does not want the United States to remain in the Paris agreement but he has not yet decided to tackle the endangerment finding. At least three conservative groups have filed petitions asking the EPA to overturn the finding.

"Paris and the endangerment finding are the two big outstanding issues. It's the first wave of things that are necessary to turn this country around, particularly in the heartland states," Ebell said at the conference.

Ebell cited the slow pace of key EPA appointments, including deputy administrator and various assistant administrators, a lack of experienced personnel at the White House, deep ideological divisions between the president's close advisers, and an "imperfect choice" of EPA administrator, as the main reasons Trump was not acting more aggressively on climate rules.

He said Trump strategists should have allowed his transition team to roll out the full de-regulatory agenda before Trump took office, instead of delaying. "The new president doesn't have long before inertia sets in," he said.

He also found fault in Trump's choice of Pruitt to run the EPA, saying the former state attorney is a "clever lawyer" but his "political ambition" may distract him from taking-on time-consuming efforts like challenging the endangerment finding.

A spokesman for Pruitt responded to Ebell's assertions, saying Pruitt had been implementing Trump's executive orders and had spearheaded "about two dozen regulatory reform actions" since taking up his position.

Ebell also faulted Trump for choosing advisers with broadly different political perspectives and backgrounds - something he said was triggering paralyzing debate, instead of action.

"He's got people on different sides and they are all fighting over who gets these jobs and nobody has the clout except the president to say, 'Hey fix this, let's get this done,'" Ebell said.

In a statement given to Reuters on Saturday, Ebell said he is still concerned about the White House log-jam in nominating people for key EPA posts and the delay in making the Paris decision.

But he said he supports Pruitt as an administrator and is encouraged by his recent actions.

"Pruitt was an excellent choice to head the EPA, and minor disagreements aside, his recent actions have made me even more confident that he will be an outstanding administrator," he said.

A White House official did not respond to a request for comment.

Administrator Pruitt Discusses Plans And Leadership For The Environmental Protection Agency

<http://mms.tveyes.com/transcript.asp?StationID=130&DateTime=5/17/2017%206:47:40%20AM&playclip=true>

Steve: Good morning to you.

Administrator Pruitt: Good morning. Good to be back with you.

Steve: the press made President Obama out to be the environmental savior. And yet, when you look at the number of toxic dumps left on your plate, it's a big number.

Administrator Pruitt: Absolutely. in fact, Ainsley, you said these fights across the country have some of the uranium and lead, posing great risk to the citizens in those areas. And examples where the E.P.A. didn't take any steps at all. We have a site outside of St. Louis called Westlake that's taken the E.P.A. 27 years just to make a decision. Not clean it up, but to make a decision on what should be done to clean it up.

Steve: That crosses both Democrat and Republican administrations.

Administrator Pruitt: Absolutely, and I think when you look at the environmental left they look at the past administration as an environmental savior. When you look at areas of contaminant in this country that don't meet the air quality standards, almost 40% of the country that qualify there. 120 million people. We had Gold King in Colorado. Flint in Michigan with water. The super fund sites across the country. the area that they focused on, the C02 reductions they struck out twice on as far as regulations. The supreme court struck them down twice.

Ainsley: What does this mean for the folks that are watching this? Does this mean can you get cancer if you are exposed to all of this?

Administrator Pruitt: Possibly, yes. And that's why it's so important to focus the core of the mission on those areas. This president is a doer, an action oriented leader. the past administration talked a lot. this administration is actually taking steps to do things to clean up the environment. We're focusing on those areas you mentioned.

Brian: super fund sites that need to be cleaned up. What's your first target?

Administrator Pruitt: We are very focused on Westlake. I was in East Chicago about three weeks ago. a site that has lead as well.

Brian: do you know how to do it?

Administrator Pruitt: We have a plan in place that we're going to announce very soon on Westlake. So it's very important to make those citizens know we are going to take steps to clean up and clean it up quickly.

Ainsley: Mr. Pruitt, we are talking about memos and what's happening in the white house. this is what the American public really needs to be focused on

Steve: our personal safety.

Ainsley: protecting our kids from cancer.

Administrator Pruitt: They want leadership. and this president is providing leadership it in so many areas, and it gets lost in Washington, D.C. malaise in all these areas.

Steve: provide leadership to do what with the environment.”

Administrator Pruitt: Clean up these sites. set a goal and say 1322 sites unacceptable. 27 years to make a decision is unacceptable. Let’s get St. Louis cleaned up.

Steve: how much is it going to cost?

Administrator Pruitt: The great thing about this is we have private funding. There are people out there responsible for these sites to clean up. There is money out there to do so. it's not a matter of money. it's a matter of leadership and attitude and management. we need to do it much better.

brian: when are you going to make a decision on leaving and staying in paris, the paris agreement.

Administrator Pruitt: I think when the president gets back from the G7. I'm actually attending the G7 in early June as well and there will be a decision on Paris. Very important we make decisions there soon.

Brian: it will be one of the big top topics.

Brian: Great to see you.

Dear Administrator Pruitt:

I write to request further information on the process for awarding a $120,000 no-bid contract¹ ("Contract") by the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) to Definers Public Affairs ("Definers") to provide "news analysis and brief service focusing on EPA work and other topics of interest to EPA."² While I am aware of press reports that EPA and Definers may have agreed to cancel this contract,³ I request this information for Congressional oversight of the process by which EPA provided notice and solicited offers for this work, and identified and awarded Definers the contract for this work.

According to Federal records, on December 7, 2017, EPA contracted with Definers for a total contract value of $120,000 in a contract not submitted for full and open competition.⁴ According to The Hill, EPA planned to utilize the company's "Definers Console" which, according to Definers' marketing materials, is a "war room" for "media monitoring/newsclip compilation".⁵

An online summary of the Contract states that it was not submitted to full and open competition, citing an "ONLY ONE SOURCE - OTHER" exception.⁶ However, in a news article,

⁶ EPA Award, supra note 1.

EPA spokesperson, Nancy Grantham, stated, “When the government seeks to sole-source a contract, notice must be placed on FedConnect or FedBizOps so other vendors have an opportunity to provide documentation of their ability to provide the services outlined in the contract scope of work... In this case, one additional vendor responded with their qualifications and the media/news clips contract was awarded to Definers.”⁷ This statement from EPA seems to suggest that Definers was not the only company that responded to EPA’s contract solicitation, and that EPA may have received multiple bids from vendors in response to this solicitation and notice.

In the same story, the EPA spokesperson stated that the Definers Contract was “$87,000 cheaper than our previous media monitoring vendor,”⁸ which, again, suggests that other companies were potentially available to provide similar services.

I also request further information on your personal involvement, or the involvement of the political staff of EPA, in the identification of Definers as a potential candidate for the Contract. I am aware that your Senior Communications Advisor worked with two current Definers staff during the Rubio for President Campaign.⁹ I am also well aware that several Definers staff are previous founders, leaders, and employees of the American Rising PAC, a political video tracking firm that targets Democratic candidates for elected office.¹⁰ Similarly, several current Definers staff also hold positions with other political organizations, such as America Rising Squared or Reclaim Connecticut¹¹—both organizations that appear to target the “Environmentalism Left... and exposing their extreme rhetoric and agenda.”¹² Yet, while the staff of Definers have a partisan reputation and history of campaign work for Republican causes, I see no evidence that Definers has any prior experience in providing “news analysis and brief service focusing on EPA work and other topics of interest to EPA”, as required by the contract.

The only EPA-related experience I could uncover by Definers staff is the reported “witch hunt against EPA employees” alleged to have expressed concerns about the agency or its leadership. According to The New York Times, a Senior Vice President of Definers, Allan Blutstein, has made several Freedom of Information Act (FOIA) requests targeting individual EPA employees who, Mr. Blutstein alleges, have raised concerns about the ability of the agency to meet its statutory missions of protection of human health and the environment. In only a cursory look at FOIAonline, in calendar year 2017, Mr. Blutstein made 25 FOIA requests of EPA on behalf of America Rising—20 of which specifically target the individual emails of EPA staff to various news organizations or Congressional offices. While the specific intentions of Mr. Blutstein are not known, the fact that you were willing to hire a company that would personally and publically target your employees for potential harassment portends a type of personnel management taken right out of George Orwell’s 1984.

1. A copy of the initial public solicitation or notice related to the “news analysis and brief service” work put out for bid, including evidence on the manner in which this solicitation or notice was made publicly available and a timeline on the contract solicitation period;
2. A description of the internal EPA process utilized to publicly notice and solicit offers for this work and to identify and award the contract for this work, including the identity of EPA staff (including political staff) that participated in this process;
3. A copy of all formal contract responses or other indications of interest to this solicitation or notice from prospective companies seeking to bid on this work;
4. A copy of all internal EPA emails, EPA communications, or other deliberative materials related to Definers, current Definers staff, or the Contract;
5. A description of the prior experience of Definers in providing “news analysis and brief service focusing on EPA work and other topics of interest to EPA”, as required by the Contract;
6. A copy of the final Contract with Definers; and
7. A copy of the contract between EPA and any company that provided similar media monitoring services to the agency immediately prior to the awarding of the Contract with Definers (press reports indicate that this contract was with a company called Bulletin Intelligence, LLC).

Dear Administrator Pruitt:

We write to express our serious concerns regarding the awarding of a $120,000 no-bid contract¹ (“Contract”) by the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) to Definers Public Affairs (“Definers”) to provide “news analysis and brief service focusing on EPA work and other topics of interest to EPA.”² The awarding of this contract without full and open competition³ to a company with no apparent experience in providing these services to a Federal agency⁴ is concerning enough on its own. However, the political activities and affiliations of Definers make this action more alarming.⁵ While Definers recently terminated the contract with EPA, we have outstanding questions regarding EPA’s selection of Definers and whether the Contract was an appropriate use of taxpayer dollars.

Federal records show that on December 7, 2017 EPA contracted with Definers for a total contract value of $120,000 in a contract not submitted to full and open competition.⁶ Additionally, The Hill reported that EPA will utilize the company’s “Definers Console” which, according to Definers’ marketing materials, is a “war room” for “media monitoring/newsclip compilation.”⁷ Definers describes the war room as a tool allowing the firm “to identify and react immediately to opportunities arising out of the news cycle and to flag potential challenges and crises before they take on a life of their own.”⁸

This vague description becomes particularly concerning given the other services offered by Definers. The firm offers lobbying services, including “recruiting and mobilizing constituents, local authorities, like minded organizations, and non-traditional allies.” Clearly, these are services which would constitute a violation of the antilobbying prohibitions if included in the EPA contract. Other services offered include working “to validate your [the client’s] narrative through the press and social media platforms” and “interface[ing] directly with reporters and editors both on and off the record, protecting our clients’ identity when desired.” These services, if included in the scope of the contract, would violate the prohibition on covert propaganda by federal agencies.

Especially concerning, Definers offers clients “dossiers on opponents, competitors and agitators ... packaged in easily digestible, media friendly formats.” We are also deeply troubled that individuals on Definers staff have been involved in a “witch hunt against E.P.A. employees” that may have publicly or privately expressed concerns about the Agency or its leadership. According to a December 17, 2017 article in The New York Times,⁹ a Senior Vice President of Definers made several Freedom of Information Act (FOIA) requests targeting individual EPA employees who may have either expressed concerns about the direction of the Agency to meet its statutory missions of protecting human health or the environment. The New York Times reports that the targeted actions may have included private conversations at an off-site luncheon, a letter to Administrator Pruitt, or attendance at a rally protesting budgetary cuts to the agency.¹⁰

We have become increasingly concerned about the secrecy and lack of transparency from your administration, and this latest report is an alarming new development. Hiring a firm that offers services attacking the press and surveilling your employees threatens the functioning of your agency and potentially the freedom of the press guaranteed by our Constitution.

We request that you respond to the following by January 19, 2018:

1. What was your role in selecting Definers for this award? In addition to yourself, which EPA political appointees were involved in selecting Definers? Please provide all communications between yourself and all other EPA political appointees and any Definers representative between February 17, 2017 and December 7, 2017.

2. Were you or other EPA political appointees aware of the FOIA requests filed by Definers employees against individual agency employees before the contract was awarded? Were those FOIA requests considered in the identification of Definers as a potential candidate for the Contract, or a factor in ultimately awarding the Contract?
3. Was Definers, America Rising, or any of their agents involved in creating or funding the website ConfirmPruitt.com?
4. Were you, any of your agents, or any current EPA employees involved in generating or reviewing the content of the website ConfirmPruitt.com, or providing or raising funds for the site? Did any representative of Definers, America Rising, or America Rising Squared generate or review content for the website?
5. What work did Definers perform for EPA pursuant to the contract? Please provide a list of all services performed by Definers for EPA during the duration of the contract, including the date, the service provided, time required, the itemized cost, and the name of the Definers employee who performed the work. What was the total amount of taxpayer funds EPA paid Definers during the duration of the contract? Please provide copies of all communications between EPA and any representative of Definers, America Rising, America Rising Squared, and the Need to Know Network during calendar year 2017.
6. On December 10, The New York Times published an article identifying an alarming decrease in enforcement actions brought by the EPA during your administration.¹¹ EPA issued an unusual press release in response, which has since been removed from the Agency website but continues to be cited by conservative media sources. What role did Definers play in the agency's response to the December 10th article? Provide any correspondence between EPA and any representative of Definers, America Rising, America Rising Squared, and the Need to Know Network regarding the December 10th article.
7. What firewalls were in place in the contract with Definers Corp to ensure that Definers firewalled the media monitoring services provided under the Contract from its services that would violate the Publicity or Propaganda Prohibition and Anti-Lobbying provisions?
8. Please provide a copy of the contract between EPA and Definers Corp. including any statement of work.

The Honorable Scott Pruitt

Washington, D.C. 20460

Dear Administrator Pruitt:

We are writing you to express our concerns about the decision by the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) to award a $120,000 no-bid contract for “news analysis” to Definers Public Affairs, as reported this week by *Mother Jones*¹ and the New York Times.² EPA’s contract with Definers risks further politicizing the agency and is another instance of EPA under your tenure becoming captured by the industry it regulates.³ At a minimum, it presents an appearance of impropriety to which you as Administrator should never be a party. For the reasons that follow, you should terminate this contract immediately.

Definers shares an address and staff with America Rising, a political action committee (PAC) that has been described as the “unofficial research arm of the Republican party.”⁴ America Rising has branded itself as an organization on the right founded “for the sole purpose of exposing the truth about Democrats through video tracking, research, and communications.”⁵ The group spends its time attacking Democrats, progressives, and environmentalists and lists Definers as one of its largest vendors.⁶ America Rising also operates the 501(c)(4) organization America Rising Squared, a dark money organization whose contributors are anonymous. The leadership teams of America Rising and Definers share numerous individuals. For example, Definers’ founder, Matt Rhoades, also founded America Rising.⁷ Definers’ president, Joe Pounder, is also the president of America Rising.⁸ Definers’ Senior Vice President, Brian Rogers, is also the executive director of America Rising Squared.⁹ These organizations may have different corporate forms, but we should all be clear that they are merely different parts of the same multi-faceted partisan operation. Any claim they are distinct is a sham.

What's more, America Rising and Definers receive significant funds from interests in the energy sector as well as other industries you regulate as EPA Administrator. While this cabal of Republican opposition research and electioneering organizations can raise much of its money anonymously so that the identities of many of its donors are unknown to the public, press reports about Definers' work and Federal Election Commission (FEC) disclosures from the America Rising PAC make it abundantly clear that companies you regulate are driving much of its work. Definers was hired by fossil fuel interests to work on opposing a local ballot initiative in Colorado that would have placed conditions on oil and gas drilling.¹⁰ America Rising has received sizeable donations from several companies and individuals affiliated with the energy industry, including Hilcorp Energy, L.E. Simmons of SCF Partners, and Jonathon Barrett of Luminus Management LLC. It has also received donations from companies and individuals in other industries regulated by EPA, including Susan Groff of Northwest Excavating, William Kunkler of CC Industries (manufacturing), George Daniels of Daniels Manufacturing, and Jerry Langer of Langer Transport.¹¹

Many of these same corporate interests vocally supported your nomination and confirmation as EPA Administrator. America Rising even ran a campaign in support of your confirmation as EPA Administrator which included ads urging senators to vote for your confirmation and the website, www.ConfirmPruitt.com.¹² At your confirmation hearing, Senator Whitehouse asked you the following question for the record, which has renewed relevance in light of recent events:

Q 138. Please provide any correspondence or details about other communication between you or anyone working on your behalf concerning the establishment or activities of America Rising, America Rising Squared, and Protecting America Now, and any other organizations that are funding efforts to get you confirmed as EPA Administrator.

A. I am not aware of any such correspondence.

Your response was dubious then, and is even more dubious now.

The America Rising-Definers network has been no less active on your behalf following your confirmation than it was before, even putting aside this recent contract. The aforementioned Joe Pounder, president of Definers and America Rising, wears yet another hat in this constellation of interconnected partisan groups: he runs a website called the Need to Know Network (NTK) that has provided favorable coverage of your tenure at EPA.¹³ EPA's official Twitter account has even on several occasions tweeted NTK's coverage of your work at EPA.

As if all this weren't enough, Definers has filed several Freedom of Information Act (FOIA) requests with EPA relating to work EPA was doing under the previous administration with respect to the treatment of wood.¹⁴ It would appear that Definers is working for a corporate client that has business before EPA relating to this matter. America Rising has also filed several FOIA requests with EPA.¹⁵ These requests were filed by the same person who filed the FOIA requests for Definers; this person works at both Definers and America Rising.¹⁶ America Rising's FOIA requests seek to obtain emails from specific EPA employees and/or correspondence between specific EPA employees and various media outlets as well as the staffs of Senators Sheldon Whitehouse, Tom Carper, Elizabeth Warren, and Robert Casey in an apparent effort to uncover "moles" within EPA.

The New York Times has recently documented how EPA enforcement has fallen off significantly during your tenure.¹⁷ Senators Carper and Whitehouse last week raised concerns that you have changed agency policy to give regulated industries an unprecedented seat at the table in negotiations to settle lawsuits where EPA is charged with failing to follow through on its statutory commitments to enforce the Clean Air Act and other environmental laws. Hiring a public relations firm with abundant ties to industries you regulate, which is itself part of a broader network of groups active on behalf of you and fossil fuel interests, suggests that you have handed industry the keys to EPA.

None of this can come as a surprise to you. In 2015, America Rising paid to attend the Republican Attorneys General Association (RAGA) annual summit at which you spoke.¹⁸ You led RAGA for two years, where you worked through RAGA to attack EPA during the Obama administration.

Your representatives have claimed that EPA's contract with Definers is for "media monitoring/newsclip compilation"¹⁹ and that it was retained "at a rate that is $87,000 cheaper than our previous vendor and they are providing no other services."²⁰ All of the above information about Definers, its activities, clients, and role within a much larger ecosystem of partisan, industry-funded operations research and electioneering groups casts significant doubt on these statements.

In light of the above and in order to shed light on EPA's decision to award this contract, we are asking that you provide the following documents and responses by Thursday, December 21.

1. Provide copies of all documents related to the procurement of services with Definers as well as the contract EPA concluded with Definers for these services.
2. What provision of the Federal Acquisition Regulation (FAR) authorized a no-bid contract for the type of services EPA procured from Definers? According to the contract transaction details posted on the usaspending.gov website, the reason not to put this contract out to bid was that there was “only one source – other.”²¹ Please explain what this means when in fact there are many firms that offer the services for which EPA contracted with Definers, including the firm that previously did that work.
3. Provide copies of all communications between EPA and Definers, America Rising, America Rising Squared, NTK, and any employees and representatives of these entities since February 17, 2017.
4. Confirm that all communications you or any EPA employee have had with any person in question 3, regardless of the form of communication used, have been retained by EPA and searched in response to this inquiry.
5. Provide communications or documentation to establish that no EPA funds paid to Definers or any affiliated group have been spent for “publicity or propaganda” or a “prepackaged news story” in violation of sections 715, 718 or 731 of division E of the Consolidated Appropriations Act, 2017.
6. Provide communications or documentation to establish that no EPA funds paid to Definers or any affiliated group have been spent with the intent or the reasonable expectation that the funds would be used to make a contribution, expenditure, independent expenditure, or disbursement for an electioneering communication in violation of section 735 of division E of the Consolidated Appropriations Act, 2017.
7. Provide all communications between EPA and the Definers – America Rising network as to and regulated entities that are also clients of or donors to Definers – America Rising. Describe and provide all communications related to EPA’s due diligence efforts to determine if any conflicts of interest existed between the agency and regulated entities that are clients of or donors to Definers – America Rising. Provide all communications to or from EPA related to Broomfield, CO, ballot initiative Question 301 this year.²²
8. Provide documentation or, if not available, a narrative description of the processes and procedures in place to ensure no client or funder of Definers-America Rising or any related entity can exert improper influence over EPA enforcement proceedings or litigation.
9. Provide all communications between EPA and the Definers – America Rising – NTK network of affiliated groups relating to EPA employee communications that were requested under FOIA by anyone from the Definers – America Rising – NTK network of affiliated groups. This letter serves to justify the sole source purchase of services from Definers for media clip and war rooms media services.

Definers offers intensive, near live-time "war room" coverage of media stories for specific topics, events or announcements. They also provide access to a searchable database of EPA topics and issues while compiling news articles delivered by email daily.

The vendor has a customizable and proprietary Console which brings together cutting-edge technology and human analysis to provide real-time actionable intelligence based on the most relevant information. It allows organizations to have a holistic view of what is occurring in the public domain with regards to their organization and relevant sectors, both domestically and globally.

This service is vital to EPA's Office of Public Affairs to fully monitor and respond quickly to breaking media coverage. This service also directly supports the Administrator and other senior EPA officials by providing them with timely updates on media stories. I believe it is of the best value to the agency to pursue this contract.

The Honorable Scott Pruitt
Administrator
U.S. Environmental Protection Agency
Mail Code 1101A

Dear Administrator Pruitt:

I write to request further information on the process for awarding a $120,000 no-bid contract¹ ("Contract") by the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) to Definers Public Affairs ("Definers") to provide "news analysis and brief service focusing on EPA work and other topics of interest to EPA."² While I am aware of press reports that EPA and Definers may have agreed to cancel this contract,³ I request this information for Congressional oversight of the process by which EPA provided notice and solicited offers for this work, and identified and awarded Definers the contract for this work.

According to Federal records, on December 7, 2017, EPA contracted with Definers for a total contract value of $120,000 in a contract not submitted for full and open competition.⁴ According to The Hill, EPA planned to utilize the company's "Definers Console" which, according to Definers' marketing materials, is a "war room" for "media monitoring/newsclip compilation".⁵

An online summary of the Contract states that it was not submitted to full and open competition, citing an "ONLY ONE SOURCE - OTHER" exception.⁶ However, in a news article,

⁶ EPA Award, supra note 1.

EPA spokesperson, Nancy Grantham, stated, “When the government seeks to sole-source a contract, notice must be placed on FedConnect or FedBizOps so other vendors have an opportunity to provide documentation of their ability to provide the services outlined in the contract scope of work... In this case, one additional vendor responded with their qualifications and the media/news clips contract was awarded to Definers.”⁷ This statement from EPA seems to suggest that Definers was not the only company that responded to EPA’s contract solicitation, and that EPA may have received multiple bids from vendors in response to this solicitation and notice.

In the same story, the EPA spokesperson stated that the Definers Contract was “$87,000 cheaper than our previous media monitoring vendor,”⁸ which, again, suggests that other companies were potentially available to provide similar services.

I also request further information on your personal involvement, or the involvement of the political staff of EPA, in the identification of Definers as a potential candidate for the Contract. I am aware that your Senior Communications Advisor worked with two current Definers staff during the Rubio for President Campaign.⁹ I am also well aware that several Definers staff are previous founders, leaders, and employees of the American Rising PAC, a political video tracking firm that targets Democratic candidates for elected office.¹⁰ Similarly, several current Definers staff also hold positions with other political organizations, such as America Rising Squared or Reclaim Connecticut¹¹—both organizations that appear to target the “Environmentalism Left... and exposing their extreme rhetoric and agenda.”¹² Yet, while the staff of Definers have a partisan reputation and history of campaign work for Republican causes, I see no evidence that Definers has any prior experience in providing “news analysis and brief service focusing on EPA work and other topics of interest to EPA”, as required by the contract.

The only EPA-related experience I could uncover by Definers staff is the reported “witch hunt against EPA employees” alleged to have expressed concerns about the agency or its leadership. According to The New York Times, a Senior Vice President of Definers, Allan Blutstein, has made several Freedom of Information Act (FOIA) requests targeting individual EPA employees who, Mr. Blutstein alleges, have raised concerns about the ability of the agency to meet its statutory missions of protection of human health and the environment. In only a cursory look at FOIAonline, in calendar year 2017, Mr. Blutstein made 25 FOIA requests of EPA on behalf of America Rising—20 of which specifically target the individual emails of EPA staff to various news organizations or Congressional offices. While the specific intentions of Mr. Blutstein are not known, the fact that you were willing to hire a company that would personally and publically target your employees for potential harassment portends a type of personnel management taken right out of George Orwell’s 1984.

4. A copy of all internal EPA emails, EPA communications, or other deliberative materials related to Definers, current Definers staff, or the Contract;

The Honorable Scott Pruitt

Dear Administrator Pruitt:

We write to express our serious concerns regarding the awarding of a $120,000 no-bid contract¹ (“Contract”) by the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) to Definers Public Affairs (“Definers”) to provide “news analysis and brief service focusing on EPA work and other topics of interest to EPA.”² The awarding of this contract without full and open competition³ to a company with no apparent experience in providing these services to a Federal agency⁴ is concerning enough on its own. However, the political activities and affiliations of Definers make this action more alarming.⁵ While Definers recently terminated the contract with EPA, we have outstanding questions regarding EPA’s selection of Definers and whether the Contract was an appropriate use of taxpayer dollars.

Federal records show that on December 7, 2017 EPA contracted with Definers for a total contract value of $120,000 in a contract not submitted to full and open competition.⁶ Additionally, The Hill reported that EPA will utilize the company’s “Definers Console” which, according to Definers’ marketing materials, is a “war room” for “media monitoring/newsclip compilation.”⁷ Definers describes the war room as a tool allowing the firm “to identify and react immediately to opportunities arising out of the news cycle and to flag potential challenges and crises before they take on a life of their own.”⁸

This vague description becomes particularly concerning given the other services offered by Definers. The firm offers lobbying services, including “recruiting and mobilizing constituents, local authorities, like minded organizations, and non-traditional allies.” Clearly, these are services which would constitute a violation of the antilobbying prohibitions if included in the EPA contract. Other services offered include working “to validate your [the client’s] narrative through the press and social media platforms” and “interface[ing] directly with reporters and editors both on and off the record, protecting our clients’ identity when desired.” These services, if included in the scope of the contract, would violate the prohibition on covert propaganda by federal agencies.

Especially concerning, Definers offers clients “dossiers on opponents, competitors and agitators ... packaged in easily digestible, media friendly formats.” We are also deeply troubled that individuals on Definers staff have been involved in a “witch hunt against E.P.A. employees” that may have publicly or privately expressed concerns about the Agency or its leadership. According to a December 17, 2017 article in The New York Times,⁹ a Senior Vice President of Definers made several Freedom of Information Act (FOIA) requests targeting individual EPA employees who may have either expressed concerns about the direction of the Agency to meet its statutory missions of protecting human health or the environment. The New York Times reports that the targeted actions may have included private conversations at an off-site luncheon, a letter to Administrator Pruitt, or attendance at a rally protesting budgetary cuts to the agency.¹⁰

We have become increasingly concerned about the secrecy and lack of transparency from your administration, and this latest report is an alarming new development. Hiring a firm that offers services attacking the press and surveilling your employees threatens the functioning of your agency and potentially the freedom of the press guaranteed by our Constitution.

We request that you respond to the following by January 19, 2018:

1. What was your role in selecting Definers for this award? In addition to yourself, which EPA political appointees were involved in selecting Definers? Please provide all communications between yourself and all other EPA political appointees and any Definers representative between February 17, 2017 and December 7, 2017.

Were those FOIA requests considered in the identification of Definers as a potential candidate for the Contract, or a factor in ultimately awarding the Contract?
3. Was Definers, America Rising, or any of their agents involved in creating or funding the website ConfirmPruitt.com?
4. Were you, any of your agents, or any current EPA employees involved in generating or reviewing the content of the website ConfirmPruitt.com, or providing or raising funds for the site? Did any representative of Definers, America Rising, or America Rising Squared generate or review content for the website?
5. What work did Definers perform for EPA pursuant to the contract? Please provide a list of all services performed by Definers for EPA during the duration of the contract, including the date, the service provided, time required, the itemized cost, and the name of the Definers employee who performed the work. What was the total amount of taxpayer funds EPA paid Definers during the duration of the contract? Please provide copies of all communications between EPA and any representative of Definers, America Rising, America Rising Squared, and the Need to Know Network during calendar year 2017.
6. On December 10, The New York Times published an article identifying an alarming decrease in enforcement actions brought by the EPA during your administration.¹¹ EPA issued an unusual press release in response, which has since been removed from the Agency website but continues to be cited by conservative media sources. What role did Definers play in the agency's response to the December 10th article? Provide any correspondence between EPA and any representative of Definers, America Rising, America Rising Squared, and the Need to Know Network regarding the December 10th article.
7. What firewalls were in place in the contract with Definers Corp to ensure that Definers firewalled the media monitoring services provided under the Contract from its services that would violate the Publicity or Propaganda Prohibition and Anti-Lobbying provisions?
8. Please provide a copy of the contract between EPA and Definers Corp. including any statement of work.

The Honorable Scott Pruitt
Administrator
Environmental Protection Agency
1200 Pennsylvania Avenue NW
Washington, D.C. 20460

Dear Administrator Pruitt:

We are writing you to express our concerns about the decision by the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) to award a $120,000 no-bid contract for “news analysis” to Definers Public Affairs, as reported this week by *Mother Jones*¹ and the New York Times.² EPA’s contract with Definers risks further politicizing the agency and is another instance of EPA under your tenure becoming captured by the industry it regulates.³ At a minimum, it presents an appearance of impropriety to which you as Administrator should never be a party. For the reasons that follow, you should terminate this contract immediately.

Definers shares an address and staff with America Rising, a political action committee (PAC) that has been described as the “unofficial research arm of the Republican party.”⁴ America Rising has branded itself as an organization on the right founded “for the sole purpose of exposing the truth about Democrats through video tracking, research, and communications.”⁵ The group spends its time attacking Democrats, progressives, and environmentalists and lists Definers as one of its largest vendors.⁶ America Rising also operates the 501(c)(4) organization America Rising Squared, a dark money organization whose contributors are anonymous. The leadership teams of America Rising and Definers share numerous individuals. For example, Definers’ founder, Matt Rhoades, also founded America Rising.⁷ Definers’ president, Joe Pounder, is also the president of America Rising.⁸ Definers’ Senior Vice President, Brian Rogers, is also the executive director of America Rising Squared.⁹ These organizations may have different corporate forms, but we should all be clear that they are merely different parts of the same multi-faceted partisan operation. Any claim they are distinct is a sham.

What's more, America Rising and Definers receive significant funds from interests in the energy sector as well as other industries you regulate as EPA Administrator. While this cabal of Republican opposition research and electioneering organizations can raise much of its money anonymously so that the identities of many of its donors are unknown to the public, press reports about Definers' work and Federal Election Commission (FEC) disclosures from the America Rising PAC make it abundantly clear that companies you regulate are driving much of its work. Definers was hired by fossil fuel interests to work on opposing a local ballot initiative in Colorado that would have placed conditions on oil and gas drilling.¹⁰ America Rising has received sizeable donations from several companies and individuals affiliated with the energy industry, including Hilcorp Energy, L.E. Simmons of SCF Partners, and Jonathon Barrett of Luminus Management LLC. It has also received donations from companies and individuals in other industries regulated by EPA, including Susan Groff of Northwest Excavating, William Kunkler of CC Industries (manufacturing), George Daniels of Daniels Manufacturing, and Jerry Langer of Langer Transport.¹¹

Many of these same corporate interests vocally supported your nomination and confirmation as EPA Administrator. America Rising even ran a campaign in support of your confirmation as EPA Administrator which included ads urging senators to vote for your confirmation and the website, www.ConfirmPruitt.com.¹² At your confirmation hearing, Senator Whitehouse asked you the following question for the record, which has renewed relevance in light of recent events:

Q 138. Please provide any correspondence or details about other communication between you or anyone working on your behalf concerning the establishment or activities of America Rising, America Rising Squared, and Protecting America Now, and any other organizations that are funding efforts to get you confirmed as EPA Administrator.

A. I am not aware of any such correspondence.

Your response was dubious then, and is even more dubious now.

The America Rising-Definers network has been no less active on your behalf following your confirmation than it was before, even putting aside this recent contract. The aforementioned Joe Pounder, president of Definers and America Rising, wears yet another hat in this constellation of interconnected partisan groups: he runs a website called the Need to Know Network (NTK) that has provided favorable coverage of your tenure at EPA.¹³ EPA's official Twitter account has even on several occasions tweeted NTK's coverage of your work at EPA.

¹³ "Scott Pruitt's media echo chamber," Grist, <http://grist.org/article/scott-pruitts-media-echo-chamber/>

As if all this weren't enough, Definers has filed several Freedom of Information Act (FOIA) requests with EPA relating to work EPA was doing under the previous administration with respect to the treatment of wood.¹⁴ It would appear that Definers is working for a corporate client that has business before EPA relating to this matter. America Rising has also filed several FOIA requests with EPA.¹⁵ These requests were filed by the same person who filed the FOIA requests for Definers; this person works at both Definers and America Rising.¹⁶ America Rising's FOIA requests seek to obtain emails from specific EPA employees and/or correspondence between specific EPA employees and various media outlets as well as the staffs of Senators Sheldon Whitehouse, Tom Carper, Elizabeth Warren, and Robert Casey in an apparent effort to uncover "moles" within EPA.

The New York Times has recently documented how EPA enforcement has fallen off significantly during your tenure.¹⁷ Senators Carper and Whitehouse last week raised concerns that you have changed agency policy to give regulated industries an unprecedented seat at the table in negotiations to settle lawsuits where EPA is charged with failing to follow through on its statutory commitments to enforce the Clean Air Act and other environmental laws. Hiring a public relations firm with abundant ties to industries you regulate, which is itself part of a broader network of groups active on behalf of you and fossil fuel interests, suggests that you have handed industry the keys to EPA.

None of this can come as a surprise to you. In 2015, America Rising paid to attend the Republican Attorneys General Association (RAGA) annual summit at which you spoke.¹⁸ You led RAGA for two years, where you worked through RAGA to attack EPA during the Obama administration.

Your representatives have claimed that EPA's contract with Definers is for "media monitoring/newsclip compilation"¹⁹ and that it was retained "at a rate that is $87,000 cheaper than our previous vendor and they are providing no other services."²⁰ All of the above information about Definers, its activities, clients, and role within a much larger ecosystem of partisan, industry-funded operations research and electioneering groups casts significant doubt on these statements.

In light of the above and in order to shed light on EPA's decision to award this contract, we are asking that you provide the following documents and responses by Thursday, December 21.

1. Provide copies of all documents related to the procurement of services with Definers as well as the contract EPA concluded with Definers for these services.
2. What provision of the Federal Acquisition Regulation (FAR) authorized a no-bid contract for the type of services EPA procured from Definers? According to the contract transaction details posted on the usaspending.gov website, the reason not to put this contract out to bid was that there was “only one source – other.”²¹ Please explain what this means when in fact there are many firms that offer the services for which EPA contracted with Definers, including the firm that previously did that work.
3. Provide copies of all communications between EPA and Definers, America Rising, America Rising Squared, NTK, and any employees and representatives of these entities since February 17, 2017.
4. Confirm that all communications you or any EPA employee have had with any person in question 3, regardless of the form of communication used, have been retained by EPA and searched in response to this inquiry.
5. Provide communications or documentation to establish that no EPA funds paid to Definers or any affiliated group have been spent for “publicity or propaganda” or a “prepackaged news story” in violation of sections 715, 718 or 731 of division E of the Consolidated Appropriations Act, 2017.
6. Provide communications or documentation to establish that no EPA funds paid to Definers or any affiliated group have been spent with the intent or the reasonable expectation that the funds would be used to make a contribution, expenditure, independent expenditure, or disbursement for an electioneering communication in violation of section 735 of division E of the Consolidated Appropriations Act, 2017.
7. Provide all communications between EPA and the Definers – America Rising network as to and regulated entities that are also clients of or donors to Definers – America Rising. Provide all communications to or from EPA related to Broomfield, CO, ballot initiative Question 301 this year.²²
8. Provide documentation or, if not available, a narrative description of the processes and procedures in place to ensure no client or funder of Definers-America Rising or any related entity can exert improper influence over EPA enforcement proceedings or litigation.
9. Provide all communications between EPA and the Definers – America Rising – NTK network of affiliated groups relating to EPA employee communications that were requested under FOIA by anyone from the Definers – America Rising – NTK network of affiliated groups. Dear Administrator Pruitt:

I write to request further information on the process for awarding a $120,000 no-bid contract¹ ("Contract") by the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) to Definers Public Affairs ("Definers") to provide "news analysis and brief service focusing on EPA work and other topics of interest to EPA."² While I am aware of press reports that EPA and Definers may have agreed to cancel this contract,³ I request this information for Congressional oversight of the process by which EPA provided notice and solicited offers for this work, and identified and awarded Definers the contract for this work.

According to Federal records, on December 7, 2017, EPA contracted with Definers for a total contract value of $120,000 in a contract not submitted for full and open competition.⁴ According to The Hill, EPA planned to utilize the company's "Definers Console" which, according to Definers' marketing materials, is a "war room" for "media monitoring/newsclip compilation".⁵

An online summary of the Contract states that it was not submitted to full and open competition, citing an "ONLY ONE SOURCE - OTHER" exception.⁶ However, in a news article,

⁶ EPA Award, supra note 1.

EPA spokesperson, Nancy Grantham, stated, “When the government seeks to sole-source a contract, notice must be placed on FedConnect or FedBizOps so other vendors have an opportunity to provide documentation of their ability to provide the services outlined in the contract scope of work... In this case, one additional vendor responded with their qualifications and the media/news clips contract was awarded to Definers.”⁷ This statement from EPA seems to suggest that Definers was not the only company that responded to EPA’s contract solicitation, and that EPA may have received multiple bids from vendors in response to this solicitation and notice.

In the same story, the EPA spokesperson stated that the Definers Contract was “$87,000 cheaper than our previous media monitoring vendor,”⁸ which, again, suggests that other companies were potentially available to provide similar services.

I also request further information on your personal involvement, or the involvement of the political staff of EPA, in the identification of Definers as a potential candidate for the Contract. I am aware that your Senior Communications Advisor worked with two current Definers staff during the Rubio for President Campaign.⁹ I am also well aware that several Definers staff are previous founders, leaders, and employees of the American Rising PAC, a political video tracking firm that targets Democratic candidates for elected office.¹⁰ Similarly, several current Definers staff also hold positions with other political organizations, such as America Rising Squared or Reclaim Connecticut¹¹—both organizations that appear to target the “Environmentalism Left... and exposing their extreme rhetoric and agenda.”¹² Yet, while the staff of Definers have a partisan reputation and history of campaign work for Republican causes, I see no evidence that Definers has any prior experience in providing “news analysis and brief service focusing on EPA work and other topics of interest to EPA”, as required by the contract.

The only EPA-related experience I could uncover by Definers staff is the reported “witch hunt against EPA employees” alleged to have expressed concerns about the agency or its leadership. According to The New York Times, a Senior Vice President of Definers, Allan Blutstein, has made several Freedom of Information Act (FOIA) requests targeting individual EPA employees who, Mr. Blutstein alleges, have raised concerns about the ability of the agency to meet its statutory missions of protection of human health and the environment. In only a cursory look at FOIAonline, in calendar year 2017, Mr. Blutstein made 25 FOIA requests of EPA on behalf of America Rising—20 of which specifically target the individual emails of EPA staff to various news organizations or Congressional offices. While the specific intentions of Mr. Blutstein are not known, the fact that you were willing to hire a company that would personally and publically target your employees for potential harassment portends a type of personnel management taken right out of George Orwell’s 1984.

2. A description of the internal EPA process utilized to publicly notice and solicit offers for this work and to identify and award the contract for this work, including the identity of EPA staff (including political staff) that participated in this process;
3. A copy of all formal contract responses or other indications of interest to this solicitation or notice from prospective companies seeking to bid on this work;
4. A copy of all internal EPA emails, EPA communications, or other deliberative materials related to Definers, current Definers staff, or the Contract;
5. A description of the prior experience of Definers in providing “news analysis and brief service focusing on EPA work and other topics of interest to EPA”, as required by the Contract;
6. A copy of the final Contract with Definers; and
7. A copy of the contract between EPA and any company that provided similar media monitoring services to the agency immediately prior to the awarding of the Contract with Definers (press reports indicate that this contract was with a company called Bulletin Intelligence, LLC).

¹³ "Scott Pruitt's media echo chamber," Grist, <http://grist.org/article/scott-pruitts-media-echo-chamber/>

As if all this weren't enough, Definers has filed several Freedom of Information Act (FOIA) requests with EPA relating to work EPA was doing under the previous administration with respect to the treatment of wood.¹⁴ It would appear that Definers is working for a corporate client that has business before EPA relating to this matter. America Rising has also filed several FOIA requests with EPA.¹⁵ These requests were filed by the same person who filed the FOIA requests for Definers; this person works at both Definers and America Rising.¹⁶ America Rising's FOIA requests seek to obtain emails from specific EPA employees and/or correspondence between specific EPA employees and various media outlets as well as the staffs of Senators Sheldon Whitehouse, Tom Carper, Elizabeth Warren, and Robert Casey in an apparent effort to uncover "moles" within EPA.

The New York Times has recently documented how EPA enforcement has fallen off significantly during your tenure.¹⁷ Senators Carper and Whitehouse last week raised concerns that you have changed agency policy to give regulated industries an unprecedented seat at the table in negotiations to settle lawsuits where EPA is charged with failing to follow through on its statutory commitments to enforce the Clean Air Act and other environmental laws. Hiring a public relations firm with abundant ties to industries you regulate, which is itself part of a broader network of groups active on behalf of you and fossil fuel interests, suggests that you have handed industry the keys to EPA.

None of this can come as a surprise to you. In 2015, America Rising paid to attend the Republican Attorneys General Association (RAGA) annual summit at which you spoke.¹⁸ You led RAGA for two years, where you worked through RAGA to attack EPA during the Obama administration.

Your representatives have claimed that EPA's contract with Definers is for "media monitoring/newsclip compilation"¹⁹ and that it was retained "at a rate that is $87,000 cheaper than our previous vendor and they are providing no other services."²⁰ All of the above information about Definers, its activities, clients, and role within a much larger ecosystem of partisan, industry-funded operations research and electioneering groups casts significant doubt on these statements.

In light of the above and in order to shed light on EPA's decision to award this contract, we are asking that you provide the following documents and responses by Thursday, December 21.

1. Provide copies of all documents related to the procurement of services with Definers as well as the contract EPA concluded with Definers for these services.
2. What provision of the Federal Acquisition Regulation (FAR) authorized a no-bid contract for the type of services EPA procured from Definers? According to the contract transaction details posted on the usaspending.gov website, the reason not to put this contract out to bid was that there was “only one source – other.”²¹ Please explain what this means when in fact there are many firms that offer the services for which EPA contracted with Definers, including the firm that previously did that work.
3. Provide copies of all communications between EPA and Definers, America Rising, America Rising Squared, NTK, and any employees and representatives of these entities since February 17, 2017.
4. Confirm that all communications you or any EPA employee have had with any person in question 3, regardless of the form of communication used, have been retained by EPA and searched in response to this inquiry.
5. Provide communications or documentation to establish that no EPA funds paid to Definers or any affiliated group have been spent for “publicity or propaganda” or a “prepackaged news story” in violation of sections 715, 718 or 731 of division E of the Consolidated Appropriations Act, 2017.
6. Provide communications or documentation to establish that no EPA funds paid to Definers or any affiliated group have been spent with the intent or the reasonable expectation that the funds would be used to make a contribution, expenditure, independent expenditure, or disbursement for an electioneering communication in violation of section 735 of division E of the Consolidated Appropriations Act, 2017.
7. Provide all communications between EPA and the Definers – America Rising network as to and regulated entities that are also clients of or donors to Definers – America Rising. Describe and provide all communications related to EPA’s due diligence efforts to determine if any conflicts of interest existed between the agency and regulated entities that are clients of or donors to Definers – America Rising. Provide all communications to or from EPA related to Broomfield, CO, ballot initiative Question 301 this year.²²
8. Provide documentation or, if not available, a narrative description of the processes and procedures in place to ensure no client or funder of Definers-America Rising or any related entity can exert improper influence over EPA enforcement proceedings or litigation.
9. Provide all communications between EPA and the Definers – America Rising – NTK network of affiliated groups relating to EPA employee communications that were requested under FOIA by anyone from the Definers – America Rising – NTK network of affiliated groups. This is the email sent from GAO with the protest number included (B-415800-1). The earlier email was sent before the number was assigned by GAO. Also, you will notice in the protest letter that there are two (2) protesters being represented by Public Citizen....which is the organization that sent the letter in on behalf of both protesters.

GAO sent two emails with two protest numbers (B-415800-1 and B-415800-2), although after I called GAO this morning they told me that one response addressing both protesters names would be sufficient once we respond. I will still send the other email for your records as well.

To the Government Accountability Office:

I am writing on behalf of Fenton Communications and New Heights Communications to protest Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) contract EP18H000025, awarded on December 7, 2017 to Definers Corp.. This grant was awarded on a no-solicitation basis, even though the services sought are industry standard and could be performed by dozens of firms and organizations, including Fenton Communications and New Heights Communications. We are seeking a finding that the contract was impermissibly awarded on a no-bid basis, and a recommendation that the December 7 contract be rescinded and an open bidding process undertaken.

The Protesting Firms

Fenton Communication is a 35-year old full-service communications agency with offices in Washington, D.C., New York, Los Angeles and San Francisco, with more than 45 staff serving a diverse array of clients. Among the many services Fenton provides, it routinely collects news clips and provides analysis of media coverage of its clients. Fenton has performed government contracts in the past, but does not currently. Fenton provides the services covered by EPA contract EP18H000025, so far as it can be determined what the contract involves, would have offered a bid if it had been solicited, and would bid for the contract if an open-bid process were to be held. Fenton Communications is an interested party for the purpose of filing a protest to contract EP18H000025.

New Heights Communications is a communications agency based in Washington, D.C. Among the many services New Heights Communications provides, it routinely collects news clips and provides analysis of media coverage of its clients. New Heights Communications has previously performed as a government subcontractor. New Heights Communications provides the services covered by EPA contract EP18H000025, so far as it can be determined what the contract involves, would have offered a bid if it had been solicited, and would bid for the contract if an open-bid process were to be held. New Heights Communications is an interested party for the purpose of filing a protest to contract EP18H000025.

Basis for Protest

On December 7, 2017, the EPA awarded contract EP18H000025 to Definers Corp. for $125,000.¹ The contract description states the contract is awarded for: “NEWS ANALYSIS AND BRIEF SERVICE FOCUSING ON EPA WORK AND OTHER TOPICS OF INTEREST TO EPA.”² The contract was not competed.³ EPA noticed on November 29 that it planned to issue the contract on a sole-source basis with a similarly obscure contract synopsis that did not plainly describe the services sought: “Sole Source Notification for News analysis and brief service focusing on EPA work and other topics of interest to EPA.”⁴

News reports⁵ indicate the contract is a successor contract to EP16H000137, a $207,597 contract awarded on February 25, 2016 to Bulletin Intelligence, Inc.⁶

EPA spokesperson Nancy Grantham told Mother Jones, “The Definers contract is for media monitoring/newsclip compilation.” Another EPA spokesperson, Jahan Wilcox, told the New York Times, “Definers was awarded the contract to do our press clips at a rate that is $87,000 cheaper than our previous vendor and they are providing no other services.”

The 2016 contract was competitively bid, in a simplified process involving eight bidders.⁷ The statement of work for the contract describes a news clipping and compilation service to provide a daily briefing to EPA: a “daily news briefing which will summarize, interpret, and electronically disseminate print and broadcast news related to EPA interests.” The statement of work requires that the contractor be familiar with EPA’s mission, be able to access a broad range of media sources, and synthesize news clips into multiple daily briefings.⁸ These are standard services for communications companies, and do not require any particular specialized or proprietary skills or technologies, as evidenced by the multiple bidders for the 2016 contract.

Federal law establishes that full and open competition is the standard means for contracting.⁹ There are exceptions to the strong presumption of competitive bidding. These include instances where this is “only one responsible source and no other supplies or services will satisfy agency requirements,” where there is an urgent condition, where there is a public interest rationale, or in national security and other grounds that are not relevant here.¹⁰

In the case of simplified acquisition procedures, for smaller-sized contracts, the law requires agencies to “promote competition to the maximum extent practicable.”¹¹ If a formal notice of contracting opportunity is not afforded, agencies are encouraged to “consider solicitation of at least three sources to promote competition to the maximum extent practicable.”¹² In determining whether to solicit competition, the contracting officers shall take into account a number of factors, including whether the service to be obtained is highly competitive, the urgency and dollar value of the contract, and past experience.¹³ Sole-source solicitation is permitted where only one vendor is reasonably available, following the same general guidelines as regular contracting (e.g., urgency) or there is reason to use a sole-sourced brand-name product.¹⁴

All of these factors point to a single conclusion: Contract EP18H000025 should have been open to competitive bidding, or at minimum should have been awarded only after solicitation of at least three sources. The competition information provided at USASpending.gov states that the rationale for sole sourcing is that only one source is available.¹⁵ This is plainly implausible. The desired service – assuming per media reports that it involves news clippings and is comparable to the predecessor contract – is highly competitive and there are many responsible sources that could provide the service. These include Fenton Communications, New Heights Communications, presumably the eight bidders for the predecessor contract, and literally dozens of other firms. It also would be unreasonable to assert urgent conditions necessitating sole-source contracting; the need for news clips is not a new development for EPA and indeed the agency had previously contracting for similar services. The only conceivable urgency is expiration of the prior contract. But if that contract was not extended, it should have expired nine months prior. At any point during that time or prior to expiration, the agency could have rebid the contract; and in general, agencies may not create urgent conditions by dint of failure to plan properly. Moreover, if the agency had gone approximately nine months without provision of the service, that suggests a lack of urgency and that EPA could have delayed weeks more for a properly bid contract. Past experience also counsels for competitive bidding: the predecessor contract was successfully bid competitively.

In light of the known facts, there is no public interest in a sole-source contract; in fact, this appears to a prototypical example of the need for competitive bidding. The agency is seeking a service that can be easily provided by dozens of firms; and the award of the contract on a sole-source basis suggests or at minimum creates the appearance that the public interest in competitive bidding is being thwarted and a contract allocated improperly to a politically connected firm.

Requested Action

In light of the above, Fenton Communications and New Heights Communications request action by the Comptroller of the United States. The firms request that the contract EP18H000025 be rescinded and that a competitive tender be issued.

This bid protest is timely filed. The contract was awarded on December 7, 2017. Ten days later falls on Sunday, December 17; and so a filing on the next business day, December 18, is timely. Fenton Communications and New Heights Communications first learned of the contract through a news report in Mother Jones published on December 15.

Fenton Communications and New Heights Communications further request the following documents be provided to them:

- Written justification for the sole-source award, if any.
- Materials related to EPA's planning for this procurement, in advance of the November 29 sole-source announcement.
- Communications with contractor Definers Corp. in advance of the sole-source award.

These materials will help establish the grounds, or lack of grounds, for issuing the contract on a sole source basis.

requirements,” where there is an urgent condition, where there is a public interest rationale, or in national security and other grounds that are not relevant here.¹⁰

In the case of simplified acquisition procedures, for smaller-sized contracts, the law requires agencies to “promote competition to the maximum extent practicable.”¹¹ If a formal notice of contracting opportunity is not afforded, agencies are encouraged to “consider solicitation of at least three sources to promote competition to the maximum extent practicable.”¹² In determining whether to solicit competition, the contracting officers shall take into account a number of factors, including whether the service to be obtained is highly competitive, the urgency and dollar value of the contract, and past experience.¹³ Sole-source solicitation is permitted where only one vendor is reasonably available, following the same general guidelines as regular contracting (e.g., urgency) or there is reason to use a sole-sourced brand-name product.¹⁴

All of these factors point to a single conclusion: Contract EP18H000025 should have been open to competitive bidding, or at minimum should have been awarded only after solicitation of at least three sources. The competition information provided at USASpending.gov states that the rationale for sole sourcing is that only one source is available.¹⁵ This is plainly implausible. The desired service – assuming per media reports that it involves news clippings and is comparable to the predecessor contract – is highly competitive and there are many responsible sources that could provide the service. These include Fenton Communications, New Heights Communications, presumably the eight bidders for the predecessor contract, and literally dozens of other firms. It also would be unreasonable to assert urgent conditions necessitating sole-source contracting; the need for news clips is not a new development for EPA and indeed the agency had previously contracting for similar services. The only conceivable urgency is expiration of the prior contract. But if that contract was not extended, it should have expired nine months prior. At any point during that time or prior to expiration, the agency could have rebid the contract; and in general, agencies may not create urgent conditions by dint of failure to plan properly. Moreover, if the agency had gone approximately nine months without provision of the service, that suggests a lack of urgency and that EPA could have delayed weeks more for a properly bid contract. Past experience also counsels for competitive bidding: the predecessor contract was successfully bid competitively.

In light of the known facts, there is no public interest in a sole-source contract; in fact, this appears to a prototypical example of the need for competitive bidding. The agency is seeking a service that can be easily provided by dozens of firms; and the award of the contract on a sole-source basis suggests or at minimum creates the appearance that the public interest in competitive bidding is being thwarted and a contract allocated improperly to a politically connected firm.

Requested Action

In light of the above, Fenton Communications and New Heights Communications request action by the Comptroller of the United States. The firms request that the contract EP18H000025 be rescinded and that a competitive tender be issued.

This bid protest is timely filed. The contract was awarded on December 7, 2017. Ten days later falls on Sunday, December 17; and so a filing on the next business day, December 18, is timely. Fenton Communications and New Heights Communications first learned of the contract through a news report in Mother Jones published on December 15.

Fenton Communications and New Heights Communications further request the following documents be provided to them:

- Written justification for the sole-source award, if any.
- Materials related to EPA's planning for this procurement, in advance of the November 29 sole-source announcement.
- Communications with contractor Definers Corp. in advance of the sole-source award.

These materials will help establish the grounds, or lack of grounds, for issuing the contract on a sole source basis.

To the Government Accountability Office:

I am writing on behalf of Fenton Communications and New Heights Communications to protest Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) contract EP18H000025, awarded on December 7, 2017 to Definers Corp.. This grant was awarded on a no-solicitation basis, even though the services sought are industry standard and could be performed by dozens of firms and organizations, including Fenton Communications and New Heights Communications. We are seeking a finding that the contract was impermissibly awarded on a no-bid basis, and a recommendation that the December 7 contract be rescinded and an open bidding process undertaken.

The Protesting Firms

Fenton Communication is a 35-year old full-service communications agency with offices in Washington, D.C., New York, Los Angeles and San Francisco, with more than 45 staff serving a diverse array of clients. Among the many services Fenton provides, it routinely collects news clips and provides analysis of media coverage of its clients. Fenton has performed government contracts in the past, but does not currently. Fenton provides the services covered by EPA contract EP18H000025, so far as it can be determined what the contract involves, would have offered a bid if it had been solicited, and would bid for the contract if an open-bid process were to be held. Fenton Communications is an interested party for the purpose of filing a protest to contract EP18H000025.

New Heights Communications is a communications agency based in Washington, D.C. Among the many services New Heights Communications provides, it routinely collects news clips and provides analysis of media coverage of its clients. New Heights Communications has previously performed as a government subcontractor. New Heights Communications provides the services covered by EPA contract EP18H000025, so far as it can be determined what the contract involves, would have offered a bid if it had been solicited, and would bid for the contract if an open-bid process were to be held. New Heights Communications is an interested party for the purpose of filing a protest to contract EP18H000025.

Basis for Protest

On December 7, 2017, the EPA awarded contract EP18H000025 to Definers Corp. for $125,000.¹ The contract description states the contract is awarded for: “NEWS ANALYSIS AND BRIEF SERVICE FOCUSING ON EPA WORK AND OTHER TOPICS OF INTEREST TO EPA.”² The contract was not competed.³ EPA noticed on November 29 that it planned to issue the contract on a sole-source basis with a similarly obscure contract synopsis that did not plainly describe the services sought: “Sole Source Notification for News analysis and brief service focusing on EPA work and other topics of interest to EPA.”⁴

News reports⁵ indicate the contract is a successor contract to EP16H000137, a $207,597 contract awarded on February 25, 2016 to Bulletin Intelligence, Inc.⁶

EPA spokesperson Nancy Grantham told Mother Jones, “The Definers contract is for media monitoring/newsclip compilation.” Another EPA spokesperson, Jahan Wilcox, told the New York Times, “Definers was awarded the contract to do our press clips at a rate that is $87,000 cheaper than our previous vendor and they are providing no other services.”

The 2016 contract was competitively bid, in a simplified process involving eight bidders.⁷ The statement of work for the contract describes a news clipping and compilation service to provide a daily briefing to EPA: a “daily news briefing which will summarize, interpret, and electronically disseminate print and broadcast news related to EPA interests.” The statement of work requires that the contractor be familiar with EPA’s mission, be able to access a broad range of media sources, and synthesize news clips into multiple daily briefings.⁸ These are standard services for communications companies, and do not require any particular specialized or proprietary skills or technologies, as evidenced by the multiple bidders for the 2016 contract.

Federal law establishes that full and open competition is the standard means for contracting.⁹ There are exceptions to the strong presumption of competitive bidding. These include instances where this is “only one responsible source and no other supplies or services will satisfy agency

DATE: December 7, 2017

This letter serves to justify the sole source purchase of services from Definers for media clip and war rooms media services.

Definers offers intensive, near live-time "war room" coverage of media stories for specific topics, events or announcements. They also provide access to a searchable database of EPA topics and issues while compiling news articles delivered by email daily.

The vendor has a customizable and proprietary Console which brings together cutting-edge technology and human analysis to provide real-time actionable intelligence based on the most relevant information. It allows organizations to have a holistic view of what is occurring in the public domain with regards to their organization and relevant sectors, both domestically and globally.

This service is vital to EPA's Office of Public Affairs to fully monitor and respond quickly to breaking media coverage. This service also directly supports the Administrator and other senior EPA officials by providing them with timely updates on media stories. I believe it is of the best value to the agency to pursue this contract.

Statement of Work
Media Support Contract
U.S. Environmental Protection Agency

Background and Purpose:

EPA's Office of Public Affairs (OPA) is responsible for working with media to provide the public with timely, coherent information on environmental issues, and EPA actions and policies. Whether providing the media with press announcements; responding to media inquiries; or reacting to published stories, OPA works to achieve articles that accurately represent EPA's perspective. In order to accomplish this goal, OPA must constantly monitor media coverage and respond to inaccurate or incomplete stories. OPA may choose a number of methods to address these stories, including contacting reporters and editors to request corrections. OPA's ability to successfully address inaccurate or incomplete stories before the stories influence other reporters or are widely read is largely dependent on its ability to identify those stories shortly after publication, and OPA requires contractor support in order to do so.

Scope of Work

EPA requires four basic services:

- delivery, via email and in near-real-time, of media stories involving relevant events, announcements and issues, with trend analysis included;
- delivery, via email, of a once-daily (Monday through Friday) compendium of news coverage of EPA and environmental issues, including a trend analysis;
- delivery, via email and in near-real-time, of media stories on high-priority issues and/or media outlets as determined through ongoing discussions between OPA and the vendor
- delivery, via searchable database, of all past media stories gathered under the other assigned tasks

The selected vendor shall be responsible for obtaining the necessary licenses (via Factiva, Lexis Nexis or similar service) to provide this service to OPA.

Accompanying these deliverables, selected vendor shall provide exceptional customer service, including 24/7 access by EPA to contractor's account managers, analysts, and senior managers, to permit last-minute changes to topics, deadlines, and specific guidance from OPA to the contractor regarding stories to be included and the extent of coverage desired.

Deliverables shall:

- include articles and broadcasts from major U.S. newspapers, national television and cable news, news weeklies, relevant magazines and journals, blogs, specialty press, etc.;

- reflect understanding of EPA's mission and interests;
- characterize, when requested, the coverage such that EPA officials can quickly get a sense of how widely various story elements were run and what the general tone is; and
- provide links within the coverage to the original full-text versions and to streaming video of important television as originally broadcast.

All content is to be provided as described within the task descriptions, with the exception of the observed legal holidays below:

- New Year's Day
- Martin Luther King's Birthday Presidents' Day
- Memorial Day
- Independence Day
- Labor Day
- Columbus Day
- Veteran's Day
- Thanksgiving Day (two days: Thanksgiving Day and the day after Thanksgiving)
- Christmas day (two days: These days will vary based on which day of the week Christmas falls and will be worked out between EPA and the contractor.)
- Inauguration Day (when applicable)

At a minimum, the following outlets shall be included in the contractor's search for media clips:

AP	Independent Journal Review
Agri-Pulse	LA Times
Argus Media	Morning Consult
Axios	NPR
Bloomberg	NTK Network
Bloomberg BNA	NY Times
Boston Globe	The Oklahoman
Breitbart	PJ Media
Business Insider	Politico
CNN	Reuters
Chicago Tribune	Scientific American
Christian Science Monitor	Tulsa World
The Daily Caller	USA Today
E&E News	Wall Street Journal
Financial Times	Washington Examiner
Forbes	Washington Post
Fox News	Washington Times
The Guardian	Google News Keywords-- EPA, Environmental
The Hill	Protection Agency, Scott Pruitt
Hot Air

Tasks and Deliverables:

For Tasks 1 & 2, the contractor shall seek to provide news stories relevant to EPA's mission, and, at a minimum, shall include the following topic areas:

- a. Administrator
- b. Air
- c. Brownfields/Superfund/Other cleanups
- d. Budget
- e. Climate Change
- f. Emergency Response
- g. Energy
- h. Enforcement
- i. Environmental Justice
- j. EPA
- k. Grants
- l. Hazardous waste
- m. International environmental agreements and disputes
- n. Pesticides
- o. Research and Development
- p. Rules/Regulations/Policy
- q. Toxics/TSCA
- r. Trash/recycling/composting/solid waste
- s. Tribal environmental issues
- t. Water

EPA may modify this topic area list by contacting the contractor as new or additional areas of focus arise.

Task 1 – Deliver, via email, Near Live-Time Coverage of Relevant Individual Media Stories

Deliverables:

The contractor shall deliver comprehensive, near live-time media coverage for high-priority events, announcements or issues. Delivery is to be made in individual emails which also include the name of the media outlet, the full text of the story, a link to the original source, and a brief (1-2 sentences) characterization of the tone of the story, all in an easily-readable, Section 508-compliant format. This "war room" type coverage will include rapid delivery of media stories. Delivery will be to a select list of approximately 30 OPA staff, as provided by OPA. Delivery shall be throughout the day as news stories are published and within 30 minutes of the time of publication. This deliverable shall be available seven days per week, from 8 AM to 11 PM Eastern Time, excluding holidays as defined in this statement of work. Note that, while emails shall typically be delivered with one story per email, multiple entries may be combined in a single email at the contractor's discretion. In either case, however, the email shall be sent within 30 minutes of all articles' publication.

Name	Due	Acceptance Criteria
Near Live-Time Coverage of Relevant Individual Media Stories	Due seven days per week, excluding holidays, from 8 AM – 11 PM Eastern Time on a rolling basis, throughout the day as news stories are published. All stories shall be sent to the OPA listserv within 30 minutes of publication.	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> - Individual or combined story entries are delivered to appropriate recipients via email within 30 minutes of article publication. - Selected articles demonstrate an understanding of which issues are important to OPA - Each email includes the name of the media outlet, the full text of the story (when in print), a link to the original source, a brief summary (for tv and radio entries), and a brief indication of the story's tone. - Emails are in an easily-readable, Section 508-compliant format. - Updates to the recipient listserv are made within one (1) business day.

Task 2 – Deliver, via E-Mail, Daily Compiled News Coverage of EPA and Environmental Issues, Including Trend Analysis

Deliverables

On Monday through Friday, excluding defined holidays, the contractor shall provide an e-mail compendium of news coverage relevant to EPA and environmental issues. These compendia are due twice daily at 8:00 AM and 3:00 PM Eastern Time. These deliveries shall consist of media stories from print, television and radio outlets. For print stories, the contractor shall provide the article title, full story content, and a link to the original full-text versions. Television and radio stories shall include a title, link, and brief summary of the content.

The compendia shall include all Task 1 and Task 3 materials. The contractor will not be required to deliver any e-mails for this task on Saturdays, Sundays or observed holidays as defined in this statement of work. However, the first Monday and/or post-holiday e-mail delivery under this task shall also include content published since the preceding e-mail delivery on Friday or the day before the holiday, and shall include relevant content from all weekend and/or observed holiday days.

In addition to news clips, the compendia shall also include a trend analysis, to include key metrics such as:

- total volume of media reports;
- average favorability -- percent favorable, neutral, and unfavorable;
- leading story focus;
- leading messages;
- leading spokespeople on key messages; and
- leading media type on key messages.

The above represents OPA's best idea of the trend analysis, but specifics will be worked out with the contractor after contract award.

These compendia, including trend analysis, will go to a listserv, maintained by the contractor, of approximately 600 people. Formatting of the compendia is at the discretion of the contractor, but they must be easy to read with a reasonable type and font size, and must be Section 508 compliant.

Task 3 - Deliver, via E-mail, Near Live-Time Coverage of High-Priority News Stories

Deliverables

In addition to the daily individual and compiled news coverage in Tasks 1 and 2, the contractor shall provide OPA staff with news stories on breaking news and high priority issues. This content will be limited to high priority issues and/or media outlets as determined on an ongoing basis through discussion between OPA and the contractor. This content is to be delivered on a rolling basis throughout the day as it is published, and within 30 minutes of publication, seven days per week from 8 AM – 11 PM. Emails shall be delivered to an OPA-provided list of approximately 30 individuals, and the list shall be maintained and updated as needed by the contractor.

Emails shall include the name of the media outlet, the full text of the story, a link to the original source, and a brief (1-2 sentences) characterization of the tone of the story, all in an easily-readable, Section 508-compliant format. Note that, while emails shall typically be delivered with one story per email, multiple entries may be combined in a single email at the contractor's discretion. In either case, however, the email must be sent within 30 minutes of all articles' publication.

Task 4 – Deliver and Maintain Searchable Database of Past Media Stories

Deliverables

The contractor shall host and provide access to a Section 508-compliant database of all media content collected in carrying out Tasks 1, 2 and 3 of this statement of work. This database shall be accessible to approximately 30 OPA staff and provide them with the ability to search media content by topic, title, media outlet, and reporter name. Access to the database shall be available 24 hours per day, seven days per week, including holidays, with exceptions for scheduled maintenance. Database shall be available within 24 hours of contract award.

Subject: Media Monitoring Services In 2017-2018

Project Scope:

Provide comprehensive media monitoring of news about Administrator Scott Pruitt and specifically about the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA).

Media Monitoring:

Definers Public Affairs can provide comprehensive war room-style media monitoring focused on stories about Administrator Pruitt and the Environmental Protection Agency. This monitoring would include print and online sources, national and local TV, and social media. Stories would be compiled into a daily matrix about Administrator Pruitt. While not alerting stories throughout the day like in a campaign setting, Definers will alert major stories as they develop.

The monitoring will focus on stories about Administrator Pruitt and the EPA and not stories about environmental policy in general. The ultimate goal of the monitoring is to provide your team with a greater understanding of the Administrator's and Agency's coverage throughout the day.

In the next three months, Definers will be rolling out for its monitoring clients a new Console that will make all news clips alerted available via login in addition to email notifications. The Console has a powerful search function that will allow users to easily find the clips they need for ongoing projects.

Timeline:

Definers can begin providing immediate support upon execution of an agreement.

Budget:

To accomplish this level of monitoring support, Definers proposes a retainer of $10,000 per month for a term of one-year.

George –

I am adding you to this email. Can you please contact Joe Pounder and circle back with me. I believe Definers is able to do morning summaries or morning media matrixes that we can circulate within the agency to interested people and they are also capable of doing live-time alerts 24 hours a day, 7 days a week.

Thank you,

Mr. Wilcox,

Please find attached an updated proposal with examples of actual alerts and daily matrix. Please let us know if you have any other questions. Our plan is when it is rolled out to clients, these alerts will be compiled into our Definers Console where they will be also stored and searchable in addition to emailed directly to inboxes. Exclusive: Trump EPA Transition Chief Laments Slow Progress In Killing Green Rules

Reuters

By Valerie Volcovici

May 22, 2017

<https://www.reuters.com/article/us-usa-trump-ebell-exclusive-idUSKBN18I196>

The man who led President Donald Trump's transition team for the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency, Myron Ebell, told a conservative conference last month that the new administration is moving too slowly to unravel climate change regulations.

In closed-door remarks to members of the conservative Jefferson Institute in Virginia on April 18, a recording of which was obtained by Reuters, Ebell said Trump's administration had made a series of missteps, including delays in appointing key EPA officials, that could hamper efforts to cut red tape for industry.

"This is an impending disaster for the Trump administration," Ebell, a prominent climate change doubter, said in the recording provided to the Center for Media and Democracy and shared with Reuters.

Ebell was chosen by Trump's campaign to lead the EPA's transition until the Jan. 20 inauguration, a choice that had reinforced expectations Trump would follow through on promises to rescind Obama-era green rules and pull the United States out of a global pact to fight climate change.

Ebell had been seen as a candidate for the EPA administrator job, a post that ultimately went to former Oklahoma Attorney General Scott Pruitt.

Ebell no longer works at the agency but remains influential within a faction of the U.S. conservative movement with ties to the Trump administration. His criticism reflects a broader disappointment by some conservatives about Pruitt's focus and commitment to scrapping even more complex Obama-era regulations.

Since taking office, Trump and Pruitt have moved to unwind environmental regulations, including former President Barack Obama's Clean Power Plan to reduce carbon emissions from electricity generators.

But his administration has frustrated some conservatives by entertaining the idea of remaining in the Paris Climate Agreement, and hesitating to tackle the Obama-era "endangerment finding" that concludes carbon dioxide is a public health threat and underlies many U.S. regulations governing emissions. Lawyers have said challenging that scientific finding could be time consuming and legally complex.

Pruitt has said he does not want the United States to remain in the Paris agreement but he has not yet decided to tackle the endangerment finding. At least three conservative groups have filed petitions asking the EPA to overturn the finding.

"Paris and the endangerment finding are the two big outstanding issues. It's the first wave of things that are necessary to turn this country around, particularly in the heartland states," Ebell said at the conference.

Ebell cited the slow pace of key EPA appointments, including deputy administrator and various assistant administrators, a lack of experienced personnel at the White House, deep ideological divisions between the president's close advisers, and an "imperfect choice" of EPA administrator, as the main reasons Trump was not acting more aggressively on climate rules.

He said Trump strategists should have allowed his transition team to roll out the full de-regulatory agenda before Trump took office, instead of delaying. "The new president doesn't have long before inertia sets in," he said.

He also found fault in Trump's choice of Pruitt to run the EPA, saying the former state attorney is a "clever lawyer" but his "political ambition" may distract him from taking-on time-consuming efforts like challenging the endangerment finding.

A spokesman for Pruitt responded to Ebell's assertions, saying Pruitt had been implementing Trump's executive orders and had spearheaded "about two dozen regulatory reform actions" since taking up his position.

Ebell also faulted Trump for choosing advisers with broadly different political perspectives and backgrounds - something he said was triggering paralyzing debate, instead of action.

"He's got people on different sides and they are all fighting over who gets these jobs and nobody has the clout except the president to say, 'Hey fix this, let's get this done,'" Ebell said.

In a statement given to Reuters on Saturday, Ebell said he is still concerned about the White House log-jam in nominating people for key EPA posts and the delay in making the Paris decision.

But he said he supports Pruitt as an administrator and is encouraged by his recent actions.

"Pruitt was an excellent choice to head the EPA, and minor disagreements aside, his recent actions have made me even more confident that he will be an outstanding administrator," he said.

A White House official did not respond to a request for comment.

Administrator Pruitt Discusses Plans And Leadership For The Environmental Protection Agency

<http://mms.tveyes.com/transcript.asp?StationID=130&DateTime=5/17/2017%206:47:40%20AM&playclip=true>

Steve: Good morning to you.

Administrator Pruitt: Good morning. Good to be back with you.

Steve: the press made President Obama out to be the environmental savior. And yet, when you look at the number of toxic dumps left on your plate, it's a big number.

Administrator Pruitt: Absolutely. in fact, Ainsley, you said these fights across the country have some of the uranium and lead, posing great risk to the citizens in those areas. And examples where the E.P.A. didn't take any steps at all. We have a site outside of St. Louis called Westlake that's taken the E.P.A. 27 years just to make a decision. Not clean it up, but to make a decision on what should be done to clean it up.

Steve: That crosses both Democrat and Republican administrations.

Administrator Pruitt: Absolutely, and I think when you look at the environmental left they look at the past administration as an environmental savior. When you look at areas of contaminant in this country that don't meet the air quality standards, almost 40% of the country that qualify there. 120 million people. We had Gold King in Colorado. Flint in Michigan with water. The super fund sites across the country. the area that they focused on, the CO2 reductions they struck out twice on as far as regulations. The supreme court struck them down twice.

Ainsley: What does this mean for the folks that are watching this? Does this mean can you get cancer if you are exposed to all of this?

Administrator Pruitt: Possibly, yes. And that's why it's so important to focus the core of the mission on those areas. This president is a doer, an action oriented leader. the past administration talked a lot. this administration is actually taking steps to do things to clean up the environment. We're focusing on those areas you mentioned.

Brian: super fund sites that need to be cleaned up. What's your first target?

Administrator Pruitt: We are very focused on Westlake. I was in East Chicago about three weeks ago. a site that has lead as well.

Brian: do you know how to do it?

Administrator Pruitt: We have a plan in place that we're going to announce very soon on Westlake. So it's very important to make those citizens know we are going to take steps to clean up and clean it up quickly.

Ainsley: Mr. Pruitt, we are talking about memos and what's happening in the white house. this is what the American public really needs to be focused on

Steve: our personal safety.

Ainsley: protecting our kids from cancer.

Administrator Pruitt: They want leadership. and this president is providing leadership it in so many areas, and it gets lost in Washington, D.C. malaise in all these areas.

Steve: provide leadership to do what with the environment."

Administrator Pruitt: Clean up these sites. set a goal and say 1322 sites unacceptable. 27 years to make a decision is unacceptable. Let's get St. Louis cleaned up.

Steve: how much is it going to cost?

Administrator Pruitt: The great thing about this is we have private funding. There are people out there responsible for these sites to clean up. There is money out there to do so. it's not a matter of money. it's a matter of leadership and attitude and management. we need to do it much better.

brian: when are you going to make a decision on leaving and staying in paril, the paris agreement.

Administrator Pruitt: I think when the president gets back from the G7. I'm actually attending the G7 in early June as well and there will be a decision on Paris. Very important we make decisions there soon.

Brian: it will be one of the big top topics.

Brian: Great to see you.

Statement of Work Media Clips 7-7-17.docx

Nancy and Jahan,

Please find attached the draft "Statement of Work" for the Definers contract that we are developing. The Statement of Work is the section of the contract that lays out the details of what we expect the company to provide, parameters on delivery, timing, etc. I believe this language to be consistent with our conversations on the services we are seeking, but thought it was important that you review and have a chance to discuss or suggest changes. If you could get back to me on Monday morning, I can get any changes incorporated into the contract and continue forward. Thanks, George
